

Broadmoor, Daly City Annexation Talks

By FRANK LAPIERRE

Closed door meetings have been held in recent weeks between Daly City officials and members of the Broadmoor Police District concerning possible annexation of that district. The Post has learned.

A joint meeting between representatives of the Broadmoor Police District and the Colma Fire District were scheduled to be held at an undisclosed Daly City location, it also was learned.

Broadmoor Police Chief Raymond Savage and City Mgr. David Rowe have made no secret of the talks.

Savage said his district is "fast going broke" and has had to dip deeper into reserves to finance the district.

Along with Police District Commissioners John McCloskey, Vince Murphy and Louis Manis, the chief wants to do "what's right by our police officers."

"What's right" is apparently trying to place them with the City of Daly City, if annexation procedures go through.

Under the law, if the police and fire districts agree to join Daly City, and Daly City agrees to the arrangement, a vote of the people is not necessary.

The District reorganization Act controls how and when annexations may come about without a vote of the people.

If 25 per cent of the property owners in an area being considered for annexation do not protest the move, and if both the fire and police districts (in the case of Broadmoor) concur in the annexation, it normally is approved.

The Local Agency Formation Commission, LAFCO, also must review the annexation application.

It was learned that the talks between the two districts and Daly City were prompted by an application for annexation of an unincorporated county area east of Junipero Serra Freeway filed by Alex Sola, of "A" Street, and W. J. Swartfager, a property owner on "B" Street.

Both Sola and Swartfager head an organization called the Citizens Committee for Annexation of Unincorporated Colma.

It was expected the Committee would take the matter to a vote.

Homes or Open Space?

Labor and special community groups presented their stand on development of San Bruno Mountain before the San Mateo County Planning Commission last Thursday in Daly City.

In its second marathon public hearing on the controversial issue of whether to allow a planned community of some 18,000 inhabitants on the mountain or to leave the entire 3,500 acres in open space, the commission heard from city officials, the Daly City Chamber of Commerce and labor representatives.

Brisbane officials attended the meeting in force, with all five council members and the city manager presenting views on the development.

Mayor Art Montenegro Jr. asked that the projected "as proposed" be rejected.

"The environmental impact report clearly indicates that there are serious problems which will not be adequately mitigated," he said.

Montenegro said the fiscal analysis report on the development "disagrees with the developer's proposal that the project can be built in accordance with the proposed phasing."

And the fiscal report does not take into consideration necessary financing of capital improvements, such as improvement of roads to cope with traffic generated by the development's residents, Montenegro said.

The mayor suggested, as did other Brisbane council members, that alternatives, such as relocation of the development off the mountain to a more suitable site in the immediate area, be explored.

Brisbane officials reiterated their stand that the Crocker Industrial Park be considered as a source of revenue to float revenue bonds for purchase of the so-called Saddle Area site, a proposal that was nixed last week by Crocker Land Co.

And Brisbane Councilwoman Jeannine Hodge told the planning commission the Crocker Hills development would create competition for developments already under way within Brisbane.

South San Francisco City Planner David C. Hale also opposed transformation of the Saddle Area from its present open space to a residential-commercial community.

Hale suggested alternative sites be sought. And he told county planners of his concern for jet noise.

Hale said he feared that re-routing of aircraft from San Francisco Airport would create noise levels above allowable decibels for any residents on the mountain.

And instead of a commercial strip along the southern slopes of the mountain, a public golf course should be constructed, Hale suggested.

The lengthy meeting was kicked off with a detailed defense by Dr. Robert J. Lloyd, superintendent of the Brisbane School District, of a series of letters he authored in recent years concerning acquisition of school sites in his district.

Last week, Robert Follett, general manager of Visitation Associates, had taken Dr. Lloyd to task before the commission for first pointing out that acquisition of a new school site was needed to cope with possible developments on the mountain. (See Page 2 Column 4)

Housewife Aids Police In Rescuing Driver

Four North County policemen and a housewife teamed Sunday to save the life of a motorist trapped inside his wrecked and burning car after it smashed into a Daly City home, rupturing a natural gas main.

The victim was reported in stable condition today at Mary's Help Hospital with a fractured hip and burns of the face, hands and chest.

According to reports, Lawrence Devreas, 50, of 220 St. Catherine Drive, Daly City, was driving northbound on Southgate Avenue, shortly after 9 p.m., when he apparently lost control, hit a parked car and veered off the street.

Devreas' car first hit a home at 10 Westridge Ave., before crashing into a second home at 718 Southgate Ave.

The car plunged into the Southgate home, slicing off a PG&E gas meter.

Occupants of the Southgate Avenue home, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Von Easter, are on vacation and the house is vacant, fire investigators said.

Witnesses said the car immediately burst into flames with the driver pinned inside.

Leaking gas began to spread police said, and there were fears the burning car might touch off a fire.

A neighbor, Mrs. Marie Mannu, was watching television when the car hit her Westridge home. She went to a window and saw flames at the house next door and called the fire department.

Grabbing a garden hose, Mrs. Mannu rushed to the flaming car and began spraying water on the trapped driver.

Robert Habermas, an off-duty Broadmoor Village reserve police officer, pulled open the right front door of the smashed car and attempted to rescue the 220-pound victim.

Daly City Officers Fred Guasco, Robert Hyink and Warren Keith arrived on the scene and together pulled Devreas from the wreckage.

Seconds after carrying the victim to safety, the leaking gas exploded in a ball of flame, according to eye-witnesses.

Brisbane Cyclist Killed

Jerry G. Gordon, 30, of 664 Sierra Point Road, Brisbane, was pronounced dead on arrival at Mary's Help Hospital at 12:25 p.m. Saturday after his motorcycle was involved in a collision with a car.

Highway patrolmen said that Gordon's motorcycle and a car driven by George Ma, 18, of San Francisco, collided on Guadalupe Canyon Parkway.

Gordon is survived by his widow, Teresa.

Time Extension for CATV Expected by D.C. Council

Vista Grande Cablevision Inc. is expected to be granted another time extension for completion of its system at the July 28 regular meeting of the Daly City City Council.

But both the city staff and council Monday warned Vista Grande it had better adhere to its agreements in the future for completion of the city-wide system and service to its customers or face cancellation of its franchise.

Before the council agreed to even discuss the extension, a team of city officials, led by City Manager David Rowe and City Attorney Albert Polonsky, hammered out details of the proposed agreement.

The agreement includes: • Submission of executed contracts for completion of the system to the city no later than July 28.

• Vista Grande must provide a staff person to operate a local origination television studio within Daly City for at least 16 hours a week.

• Agree to have a television expert evaluate Vista Grande's system and make necessary changes to upgrade the system. This will be paid for by Vista Grande.

• A "super trunk line" to be completed between Vista Grande's San Bruno Mountain transmission site to the Skyline Terrace area of the city to improve reception and quality of signal in that area by Nov. 15.

• Vista Grande shall secure a $200,000 surety bond to insure they perform as agreed. Cost of completing the system is estimated at $208,000, it was explained.

• Before any subscriber to a CATV is disconnected, Vista Grande must send a notice explaining its intention to discontinue service.

A major complaint of patrons appearing at recent hearings on the cablevision controversy is the futility of trying to get through to a company representative on the telephone.

Vista Grande has agreed to allow Pacific Telephone Company to complete a communications system analysis and make needed modifications.

Councilman William Schumacher advised attorney Harold R. Farrow, representing Vista Grande, to "impress upon your clients this is the last time we will ask our staff and citizens to put up with this (cable television issue)."

Schumacher also noted that the matter of school hookups to the system had not been included in the agreement and suggested efforts be made to install the system in schools requesting it.

John McNeil, of 143 Belcrest Ave., Daly City, said he wanted assurances service by the company would be improved.

He alleged past service has been "extremely poor."

Pacificans Will Pay More

Scavengers Boost Dump Rate

In 1974, the city's share of the Coastside dumping fees was some $21,000.

Sereni said the life span of the dump — now estimated from three to 12 years — is limited and refuse dumped from "outside" cities takes up room inside the site.

Councilman William Schumacher said he, too, was more concerned with the lifespan of the dump than with increasing city profits.

Without the dumpsite, Daly City residents will have to go elsewhere to dispose of their garbage.

This would likely result in higher disposal costs, the council was told by Sereni.

Pacific's refuse now reduces the life of the Coastside dump by seven months for every year of dumping, according to City Mgr. David Rowe.

"We got into it (the contract to dispose of Pacific's garbage) only to help Pacifica," Rowe said.

Pacific ran into a bind three years ago when their dumpsite inside the town limits was filled.

Sereni said Pacifica has the option to take their refuse to the Candlestick Point dump transfer site (Sunset Scavenger Company-Golden Gate Disposal) where they would be charged $9.90 a ton, or to the Marsh Road dump on the Peninsula where $4.68 is charged at the gate.

Garbage rates for Pacificans will be taking an unexpected jump effective Aug. 1

SP Improvements Suggested At Public Hearing

An outpouring of public comment on the proposed San Mateo County interim transit plan had been anticipated at Wednesday's public hearing on the matter in Redwood City, but only 12 persons spoke.

Although the county supervisors' chambers were crowded, few addressed the issue at hand — the future of transportation on the Peninsula.

Those that did speak on the subject included senior citizens, city officials and a representative from the League of Women Voters.

Suggestions ranged from revision of wording within the present proposed plan, to a recommendation that the Bay Area Rapid Transit system be extended down the coast to Santa Cruz and San Jose.

The most popular suggestion was to upgrade Southern Pacific between San Francisco and San Jose.

This would be far less costly than extension of BART, it was explained by supporters.

David Grant of Menlo Park expressed concern that long-haul buses operating in the county, as suggested in the 1973 local bus study, might be detrimental to operations within cities.

Grant said consideration should be given to a feeder bus system to Southern Pacific.

There is a "bad need for transportation in this whole county," Zuma Francisco of Redwood City said.

"All of us (senior citizens) don't own cars. Others just can't drive," she said, adding "All we can do is sit home on Sunday."

A. L. Crawford of Atherton asked if cities would have veto power over routes in their communities.

He was concerned that traffic generated by the frequent routing of buses along narrow streets would cause congestion.

County Engineer Sid Cantwell said the board will continue to look for opinions on the plan, but in the final analysis the board's decision on routes would be final.

Daly City voiced its concern over wording used in the plan "to more clearly indicate that the district will operate and provide — not just promote — an integrated countywide transit system, interfaced with inter-county systems which may be operated by other public or private organizations."

Assistant City Mgr. Ray Lesinger said the initial bus transit system plan should indicate that "it will be comprised of acquired municipal local bus systems which will then be expanded and extended to all urban communities at the earliest feasible time in order to provide a single integrated countywide system with equalized levels of service to all urban areas of the county."

Director Jack Bland said he feared some cities would not adhere to standards of service levied by the district.

The levels should be minimum standards, Lesinger responded.

Ann Benner, of Hillsborough, representing the League of Women Voters, said the present plan is within guidelines "within which and upon which a plan will be developed."

She said the basic plan "at this stage" does not conflict with the League's views on public transportation.

The transit plan should emphasize the need for special vehicles required to transport the elderly, mildly handicapped and youth, Clifford Boxley, of the PROBE Community Center in Redwood City, suggested.

Boxley also asked that an affirmative action program be included in the transit plan. Also needed would be an affirmative action officer to oversee the program.

Chairwoman of the San Mateo County Commission on Aging, Ethel Mears, said the greatest need now facing the transit board was dependable transportation for the county's 72,000 persons over 60 years old that reside in the county.

In some special cases, handicapped persons must have door-to-door service because they are unable to walk to a bus stop.

Supervisor Bill Royer, also a board member, suggested contracting such special need services to existing private companies who are equipped to handle and transport the handicapped.

The board agreed that there is a definite need for such special transportation and voted a supplemental amount of $100,000 to its 1974-75 budget be sent to the finance committee for review.

Wednesday's meeting did not consider routes or adoption of previous transit plans, such as the Local Bus Formation Study.

Cantwell was instructed to compile information resulting from the hearing and turn it over to the board at its next general meeting.

It was expected the board would take action at that time.

Petitions Seek SSF School Chief's Ouster

The impact of the recent two-week teachers strike is becoming more apparent in the South San Francisco Unified School District.

A drive for the resignation of Supt. Dr. Paul Nielsen, a grievance by the Classroom Teachers Association president, and mutterings of alleged reprisals against those involved in the strike were a few of the problems surfacing in Thursday night's board meeting.

A clause added to the teachers strike settlement on June 5 said there will be no reprisals against anyone "based on the withholding of services" during the strike.

Trustees, parents and teachers, and administrators are questioning the effectiveness of the clause and precisely who is protected against reprisals.

Petitions containing signatures of more than 1,000 South San Franciscans, calling for the resignation of the superintendent, were presented by David Orozco and J. B. Martin.

It is the third petition of its kind presented publicly to the trustees.

Orozco said they are in the process of compiling specific charges against Nielsen. Presently, they have compiled only general charges.

In a memo to the board asking the item be placed on the agenda, Orozco wrote that Dr. Nielsen has "fostered such a climate of distrust, disenchantment and demoralization that it helped force the district into the first strike in its history." He also listed general charges concerning the superintendent's alleged misconduct during the strike.

Nielsen waived the opportunity for an executive session, noting the lack of specific charges.

"This is the third such petition in recent weeks," said Orozco. "We believe there is a message here."

He said he would expect specific charges to be made at the next board meeting.

Orozco told The Times that few persons have been willing to sign statements of specific charges against Nielsen. He and Martin have a few dozen unsigned complaints and about six signed statements, Orozco said.

He said they did not seek to be on the agenda as an action item, since they had no opportunity to talk personally with Nielsen.

"If there's no specific charges, I don't know what we can do with general charges," Nielsen said.

Orozco said he is not optimistic about possible board action.

"It disturbs me personally so many people are afraid to speak up," Orozco said.

"We want the board to realize the community agrees with our position," he said in submitting the petitions.

Trustee John Dillon objected to the public reading of the petition, calling it "unfair."

"You are making accusation by innuendo," Dillon said. "It can plant seeds of distrust and disillusionment on people when something is totally innocent. I think when the full story is known they will turn around and withdraw their petition," Dillon said.

Most people who sign a petition, he said, "Don't know what they are talking about."

Austin said the no-reprisal clause was intended to apply for both parties.

"My signature did not appear on any document of no-reprisals on any side," said Martin. "The circulation of petitions has nothing to do with a no-reprisal clause."

Mrs. Lee Port, a deputy district attorney and legal counsel for the board, who was an advisor in developing the clause, said it was intended to "cool things off."

"I can see the embers are still burning," she said. "I am very discouraged."

The second action in the strike aftermath was a grievance by Mrs. Marjorie Shotton Pitkin, Classroom Teachers Association president, who complained she was not paid for a May 20 leave of absence.

The board did not act on the grievance, therefore denying Mrs. Pitkin the pay for May 20.

Following both items, several parents sought clarification of the no-reprisals clause as it applies to all parties.

Ron Rivveta, Certificated Employees Council chairman, said he does not believe any teacher would consciously act against a student as a result of the student's role in the strike. He said he does not expect any problems in September.

Garbage

because the Daly City Scavenger Co. has increased tonnage fees for the Coastside Scavenger Co. from $5 to $17.50 a ton.

Mario Toriggino, president of the Coastside Scavenger Co., asking for approximately $33,978 in increased charges, told the council he signed a one-year contract Monday with the Daly City firm.

Toriggino said that when he complained about the rates — he said he was anticipating a 50-cent a ton increase — he was told, "If you don't like the price, go somewhere else."

There is no where else to go, said Toriggino.

The council on a 4-1 vote — Councilwoman Grace McCarthy dissenting — instructed the staff to prepare an amended contract to reflect a 4.7 per cent increase for residential refuse pickup and a 7 per cent increase for apartments and commercial pickups.

Toriggino suggested the city look to its own environs for a refuse dump site. "We have quite a few canyons," he said.

Councilman Aubrey Lumley requested a resolution of intent "to work toward a disposal site within the boundaries of the city, for discussion purposes," be included with the amended contract.

Lumley had made the motion to amend the contract, saying the amount being sought was "strictly to offset the increased cost of Daly City dumping."

The staff had recommended the request be referred back for analysis and recommendation, including a complete audit of the scavenger company books, to determine operating and capital costs and net income.

According to City Mgr. Don Weidner's report to the council, the city and the firm agreed in February, 1974 that rates would not be reviewed again until June, 1976.

The increased rates will mean a monthly fee for residential pickup to go from $3.15 to $3.30 with no increase in the number of containers to be set out.

Mountain

and later allegedly saying the development had not been figured into student projections resulting from the development.

Lloyd said the school board was neutral in the matter of the development and was interested only in the education of the children.

He blamed the developers for costing the district between $20,000 and $25,000 for necessitating revision of a school master plan.

City Manager David Rowe of Daly City informed the commission he would not speak at the hearing.

He later said the city was not invited to attend.

Pro-development spokesmen told of the county's need for the development, pointing up the troubled local job market and financial plight of the county as unemployment rolls grow longer.

Dave Keyston, president of Anza-Pacific, said Crocker Land Co. had been paying taxes on the property for decades, taxes that have been used to support the government.

He questioned whether any public agency had the authority to assign all Crocker-owned lands on the mountain to open space, thus depriving the land owner from realizing a return on his investment.

"A developer of the stature of Visitation can and will build a good development," Keyston predicted.

To continue to delay the development will be costly to the over-all economic development of San Mateo County, Henry "Bud" Bostwick Jr., manager of the San Mateo County Development Association, warned.

Bostwick said 42,000 additional jobs would soon be needed in the county to cope with the expanding adult population.

Last speaker of the night was Peter J. Markovich, general manager of the Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce, who presented the chamber's official stand in support of the project.

Markovich said the mountain should be developed, with consideration given to open space.

Annexation

ter before the city council in Daly City July 14.

Sola said he was primarily interested only in his area being annexed to Daly City.

"We want representation in our area — representation that we are not now getting from the county," Sola said. "We want to be able to take our problems where they will be listened to."

He said he felt Daly City would maintain the streets in his area better than the county was now doing.

"When a woman goes to the store she pays money for a commodity. We are paying, but simply not getting our dollar's worth from the county," Sola said.

Ten years ago, neither Sola or Swartzfager would have joined Daly City, they said.

"But the way it is now, I feel I am pouring (tax) money into a hole," Sola said.

Sola ventures that "about half" of the some 1,100 people affected by his application will support the annexation.

Rumors that a movement was underway to ask the Broadmoor area — and not just the so-called Sterling Park area — to annex to Daly City had been circulating in recent years.

It wasn't until this year that serious talks began between officials of both communities.

There are six police officers in Broadmoor and a volunteer firefighting force that must be dealt with by both sides in the talks.

Several months ago, the Colma Fire District voted to allow the Town of Colma to join it, much to the chagrin of some Daly City and LAFCO officials.

Although LAFCO has placed a moratorium on annexation of several districts and areas in the North County area, including Broadmoor and Colma, a LAFCO sphere of influence hearing on the issue is scheduled for August.

LAFCO Executive Director Sherman Coffman refused comment on this latest move until he has had time to "fully review the matter."

Protests on any such annexation move are expected to come from the Broadmoor Property Owners Association (BPOA) Board of Directors which earlier stated it would prefer to remain unincorporated.

The handwriting is on the wall, Savage said.

"Those that oppose this (annexation) just don't want to face facts," he said. "By next June we'll be broke and services will have to be drastically curtailed."

The secretary of the BPOA, Mrs. Margaret Fleischer, the wife of a Broadmoor policeman, said the BPOA "was well aware of the district's problems."

But, she said, "The board, based on the results of recent questionnaires, does not automatically accept annexation to Daly City as the best alternative."

She said she does not believe commissioners of the police district "are listening to the people of the district it serves."

Councilman William Schumacher Monday commended the Citizens Committee for Annexation of Unincorporated Colma and the Daly City city staff for their efforts in working toward an annexation agreement between both agencies in the so-called "Sterling Park" area.

Schumacher said the annexation was "a long time in coming and will be beneficial to both sides."

Pacifica Trip To Alcatraz

The PB&R and the Golden Gate National Recreation Area will co-sponsor three Alcatraz tours for 50 children 12-13 years old.

The program will be sponsored in cooperation with the Delancey Street Foundation, which will conduct an interpretive program of the island, emphasizing its history and drug and crime prevention.

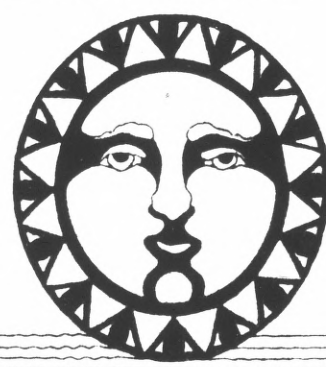

After the tour, the children will go to Baker Beach for a barbecue cookout, games and arts and crafts activities. All money and permission slips must be returned to J-Ten leaders at Pacific Manor and Cabrillo School only beginning at 1:30 p.m., July 16.

Years of Growth Are Over

'No More Blank Check for Public Education'

(Editor's Note: To the extent editorial opinion is expressed in these articles, the views are those of the author and do not necessarily, and in some cases do not at all, reflect the opinion of The Post.)

By JOHN HORGAN

Nurtured on the boom years after World War II, public educators have been weaned on the happy philosophy of growth.

Their background has been geared almost exclusively to learning how to handle increasing numbers of students.

San Mateo County may be a prime example of this. Here, as the county's population soared, the numbers of youngsters in the schools exploded.

In 1945, there were 20,084 students attending classes in San Mateo County school districts.

By 1970, 25 years later, there were 139,629 students.

Today, the reverse is occurring. Since 1970, this county has lost more than 8,000 students. The trend is expected to continue.

Public school officials are being forced to alter their outlook significantly.

They are now finding themselves in the unaccustomed position of figuring ways to deal with the new phenomenon of decline.

The symptoms are all around them:

- The population boom has ground to a halt. Young families are having fewer children. More people are choosing to remain single and childless.

- Because land values are so high in this wealthy county, young families with children often find they cannot afford to live here any more.

- Land on which to build new homes — at any price — is almost non-existent. There is land on the Coastside and, perhaps, on San Bruno Mountain, where new homes could one day be built, but most other communities are already developed nearly completely.

- The nation's economy itself has slowed down even as the county reaches what some have termed a no-growth state.

- Taxes are so high that property owners, especially older landowners whose children are grown and gone, are refusing to approve school money measures. In the last year, 18 of 21 school revenue increase measures have been defeated by the county's citizenry.

"The schools are going to have to learn to run more efficiently," says Dr. Clifford Denney, Director of Planning for the San Mateo Community College District.

"There is no more blank check for public education. This area has been fortunate. It has had a wealthy tax base. But things have changed."

They have changed because the state of California is altering the way public education is paid for.

Increases in land values don't mean much any more for school districts. They must rely on enrollment increases in this county to benefit in terms of increased revenues.

Since enrollments are dropping, the districts are hurting, some of them badly.

For some, this situation represents an opportunity to plan ahead creatively, to consider changes that should have been thought of years ago.

Says Denney, "Moves are going to have to be made. This crunch can actually make us better, more effective. We should be a better ship because of it."

For Denney, perhaps the most important answer to what ails this county's schools lies in consolidation of services, facilities, personnel, programs, etc.

That means closing some schools, unifying some districts, bringing the county's office of education into closer participation with all of the districts and learning to utilize educational resources more efficiently all the way around.

Denney terms this county's public education establishment as a "classic case of a lack of articulation." By that he means that there is far too little cooperation and coordination among the balkanized districts and the county office.

It is routine for the two dozen districts to act as though the others did not exist in the same territory.

"There is unbelievable duplication in this county," Denney says. "Many of these districts are fighting for their survival because they stand alone."

Denney has had experience with a similar situation when he was Vice President for Research and Development at the Mount Hood Community College District in Oregon.

He was part of an effort which succeeded in unifying 17 Multnomah County districts into eight. Cost came down, Denney says, and the whole operation there became more economical.

What about fears of losing local control over education due to unification?

Denney says, "Eighty per cent of those fears proved to be unfounded. Some superintendents had to be dragged in but most did not. What prevents a move like that is personalities, old grudges. Our charge is to deliver good education economically. We can't continue to proliferate. Fatness hampers effectiveness."

There is considerable opposition to the notion of unification.

Ruth Steiner of Hillsborough, president of the San Mateo Union High School District's board of trustees, says, "I don't think any unification issue can pass."

She says unification of districts does not necessarily save anyone money.

Denney, however, disagrees. He says consolidation did result in cost savings in Oregon.

Larger districts allow officials more flexibility to handle such matters as enrollment declines and the need to shut schools.

Dr. Larry Foster, a former trustee in the Millbrae School District and the associate dean of the graduate division at San Francisco State University, believes that many school districts have brought troubles onto themselves.

"Much of what the state has done has been a response to the failures of districts," says Foster. He deplores the more radical postures of the state, however. "I hate to see good programs being torn down to build up others. It shouldn't work that way. There must be a better way."

Foster, a member of the county's committee on school district organization, says consolidation and unification efforts are inevitable in the future here.

"The state has been trying to impose this on districts for years. Often, it has seemed like blackmail. It is not a popular position to advocate unification but it is going to have to come. The question is how large will the districts become."

He says the idea of allowing small elementary districts to unify might not be palatable to the state. "The state wants to see unification kindergarten through grade 12."

The state has the authority to permit or not a vote on such measures by a region's populace. "The state is not inclined to go halfway on this," Foster says.

Still, all of this goes against the traditional grain, both here in this county and in education generally.

According to Kenneth Boulding, writing in the June issue of Change magazine, "The prospects for the next 50 or 100 years, barring a major catastrophe such as nuclear war, suggest that we are now entering the age of slowdown."

He continues, "But we are very ill-equipped for the management of decline. All our institutions and ways of thinking have survived because they were well adapted to an age of rapid growth."

Boulding, a professor of economics and program director of the Institute of Behavioral Sciences at the University of Colorado, points out that large school districts seem to be able to adjust better to decline.

Proposed SSF Center Blasted

"We don't want it. We don't need it. We're not going to have it. That's it."

With those words South

San Franciscoan Earl F. Martinelli, 709 Southwood Drive, summed up the feelings of residents fighting a proposed shopping center at the southwest corner of El Camino Real and Westborough Boulevard.

Nearly 200 residents of the immediate area showed up at the El Camino High School Little Theater Tuesday night to denounce plans of Sutter Hill Ltd. of Palo Alto to construct a commercial facility on the vacant 6.85 acre site.

The proposal before the South San Francisco Planning Commission to construct the center around a Lucky food market and Payless drug store was a rerun of a year ago, with modifications to the plan. But the opposition has remained unchanged.

Commissioners, after listening for more than three hours to representatives of Sutter Hill and residents, continued the public hearing on a final Environmental Impact Report (EIR) until Sept. 23, to give residents time to study the document.

The extended time was a request of Martinelli, who added, "We are unalterably opposed and will use all legal means at our disposal to stop it."

Donna Catlett, 811 West Orange Ave., said there are fears that the narrow residential street will become a main thoroughfare to and from the center.

"It boils down to a big money game," said Mrs. Catlett. "It has nothing to do with neighborhood concerns. No matter what we want, it doesn't matter. For all our yelling, this might still come about. I resent being used as a pawn. We don't want it or need it."

Chairman Homer Hale was quick to assure Mrs. Catlett, "We are concerned about what you and your neighbors are concerned about. That's why we're holding this public hearing."

After Sutter Hill Executive Vice President John L. de Benedetti and several of his consultants elaborated on what they considered the positive aspects of the proposal, resident Allan Weinstein, a planner with Stanford Research Institute, critically dissected their efforts.

He said, "Much of the material in consultant reports are esoteric gobbledegook. We sound nice, but we use euphemisms for possible future disasters."

Weinstein of 332 Susie Way, went on to criticize the claims of shopping center need based on planning and economic benefits, calling it "a big business ripoff."

"You are putting in another Lucky, although there are several in the area. You're taking the profits — which are fleeting — and sending them out of town. You are not appreciably employing the people of South San Francisco. You are really taking profitable South San Francisco businesses and making them unprofitable, possibly making them failures and their employees unemployed," said Weinstein.

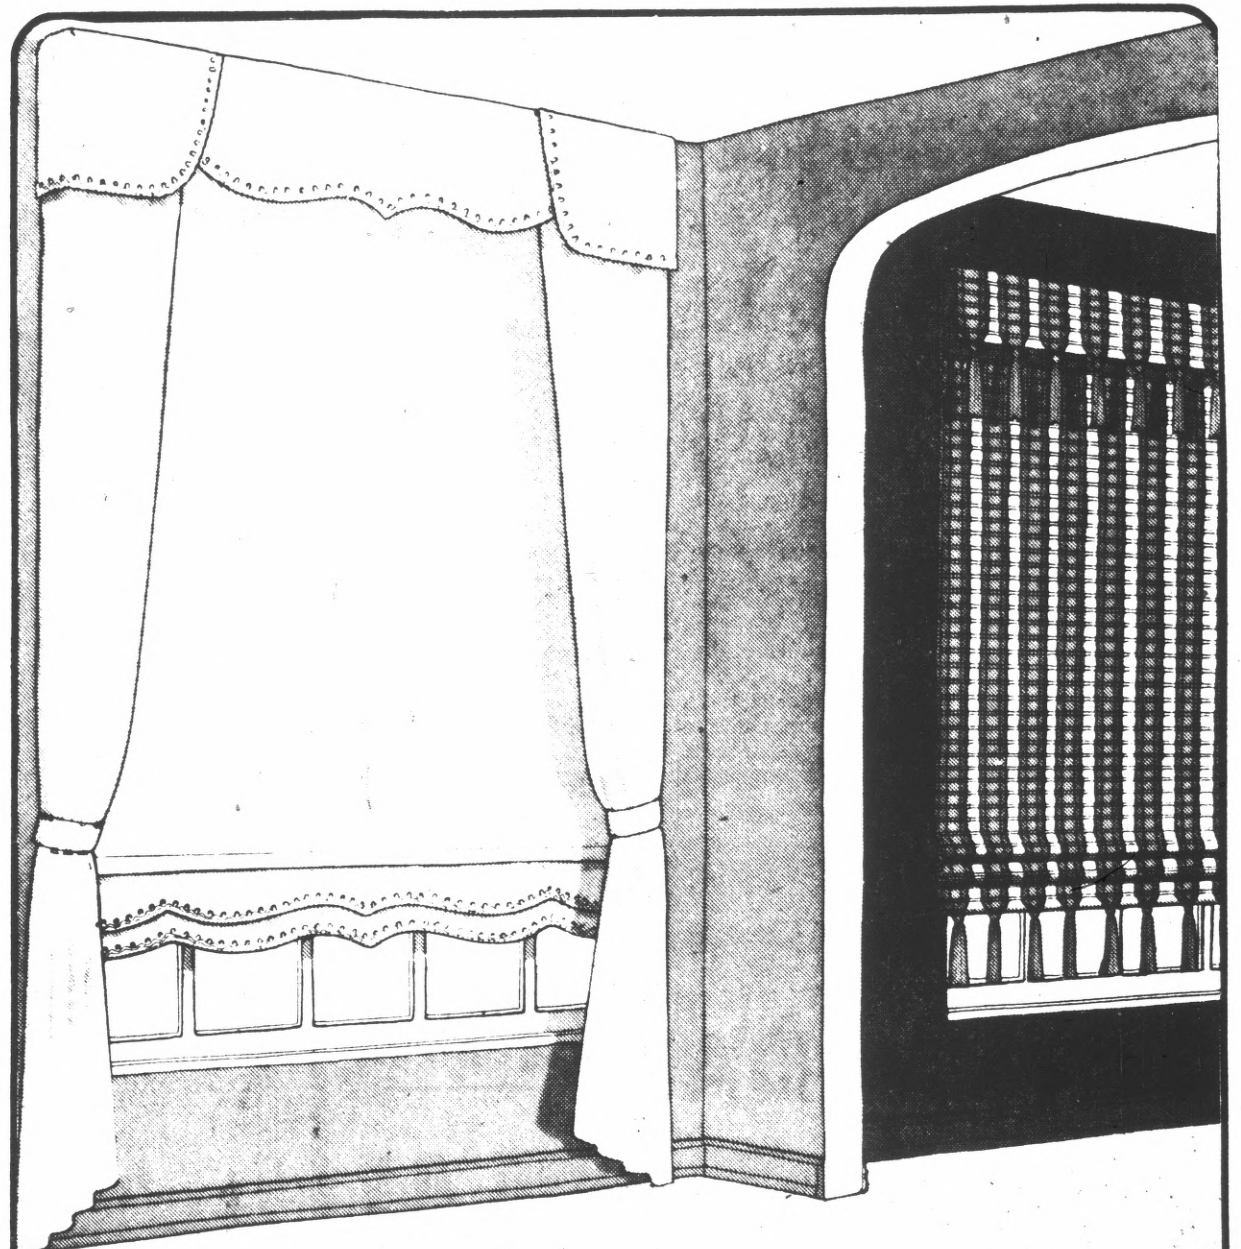

His comments echoed a concern previously broached by Commissioner Eugene Mullin after Sutter Hill market research consultant John Thompson had indicated the new center would take a considerable amount of sales dollars from other stores in the area.

According to Thompson's figures, local supermarkets would lose $4,786,704, of which $1,196,676 would be taxable sales. The sales loss in the drug market, according to Thompson, would be $1,614,358, all of it taxable. By contrast, Thompson forecast new shopping center sales of $8.2 million.

Mullin's concern was whether the surrounding businesses would be able to sustain such substantial losses and still continue in business. He said a primary concern was for the small businessman, who, he noted, is fast becoming extinct.

"If you put those others out of business, there will be no net increase to taxable revenues to the city," said Mullin.

Houseboating—a Vacation Shangri-La

By GARRY NIVER
Post Staff Writer

As the population continues to increase and travel becomes more and more sophisticated, the old vacation phrase of "getting away from it all" is following the path of the whooping crane and bald eagle into extinction.

Taking to the hills or seashore for a little serenity and collection of thoughts is about as effective as going to Sausalito on a Sunday afternoon or Lake Tahoe on Labor Day.

However, unbeknownst to most of the population, there still are some places — albeit remote — which allow a person to spend leisure as if he or she were a millionaire. And at the same time enjoy the luxury of solitude.

Have you ever had the yearning to be the captain of your own ship? Or to be the head chef in the galley? How about being an explorer or flycatcher supreme?

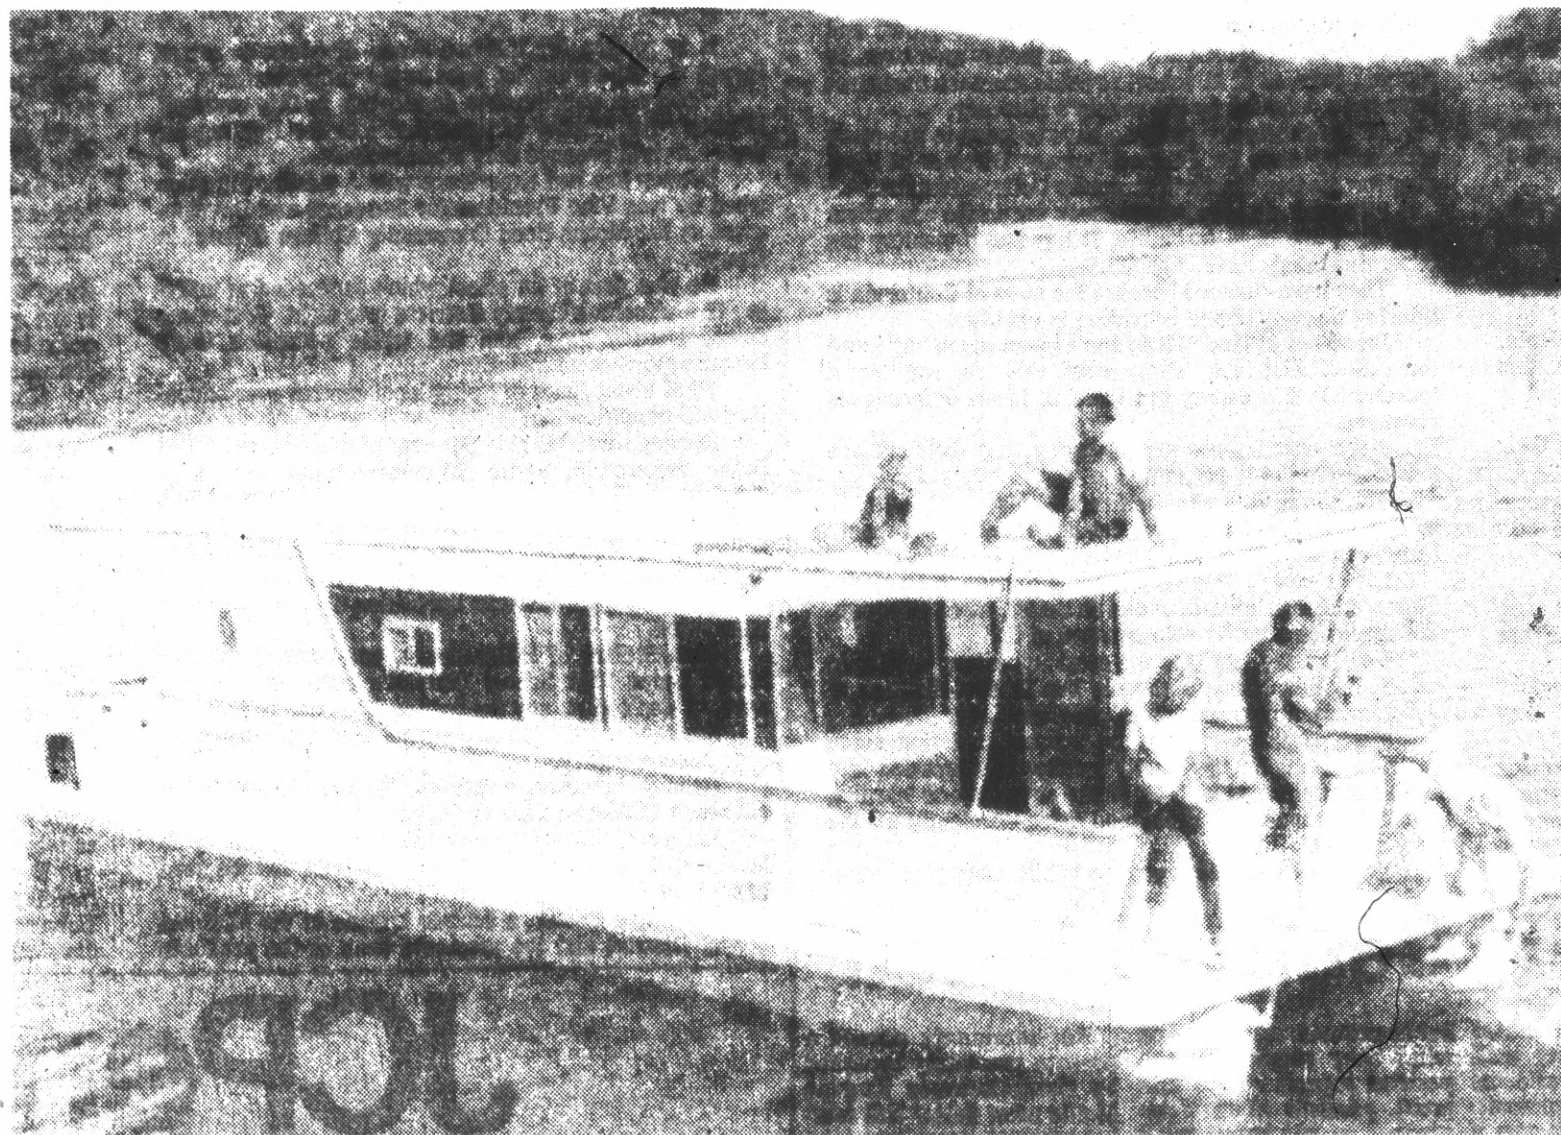

This summer my wife, Aileen, another couple and myself did all of the above. We discovered our vacation Shangri-La aboard a houseboat on the pristine waters of Shasta Lake.

And lest you think that houseboating is roughing it, let me first tell you that Aileen's idea of the wilderness is spending a night in a first class motel with a three-star dining room.

So houseboat living today isn't quite the way Tugboat Annie had it. Our home on the water came equipped with a gas range and oven, refrigerator, bathtub-shower, barbecue, stereo and air conditioner. We brought along our own portable television so the only things missing were the dishwasher and the Jacuzzi.

And a good part of the excitement was planning for the week-long sojourn. Much of the shopping, for such items as sun tan lotions, paper plates, plastic cups, soft drinks and liquor was done at home on the Peninsula.

A good deal of arguing over what to eat aboard the boat was saved by planning the complete menu at home. This also enabled the intrepid group of explorers to shop intelligently at the supermarket in Redding, which is the last big pit stop before the wilderness.

AWAY FROM IT ALL

Houseboating is rapidly becoming one way to enjoy the wilderness without the rigors of roughing it.

With a menu and supplementary list, we were able to purchase the proper amount of meat, chicken, eggs, ham, sausage, bacon, bread and other staples we would need for the six days on the boat. The menu was planned right down to the wine, with such outstanding selections as a Mondavi Chenin Blanc to go with the chicken and an eight-year-old bottle of Bordeaux to accompany the chateaubriand.

We arrived at Holiday Harbor on a Sunday afternoon and were escorted to our floating home. The Holiday Harbor guide ran through the instructions so quickly that we were certain that a shipwreck was imminent.

Hesitantly, and filled with reservations which almost bordered on remorse, we chugged slowly away from the safety of Holiday Harbor and into the openness of Shasta Lake. But our fears were for naught as the instructions became very simple to follow.

A joyous cheer from the crowd of four people and the loud pop of a cork departing a champagne bottle accompanied our turn up the McCloud River arm.

And for the next six days we did just as we pleased. We would dock at night in a silent and secluded cove. And the sky dipped down so low at night that the reflection from Venus would send a shimmering silver stitch across the darkened waters to the bow of the boat.

And the mornings, which would sparkle with brightness and the smell of newness, would find deer down by the boat drinking from the fresh waters of the lake.

Daytime hours were spent sunbathing, fishing, swimming, exploring little creeks and visiting the Shasta Caverns. The evenings would be used playing cards or just plain conversing, which like "getting away from it all" is becoming a lost art.

And, despite the 367 miles of shoreline and miles of open water, you still never know whom you might run across. (Figuratively, not literally).

One afternoon, while tied up at a little dock in a small inlet off the McCloud Arm, a speedboat pulled up and the driver, a scroungy-looking type, wearing a ragged tee-shirt and drinking a can of Coors, bid us good morning. Meeting country and western superstar Merle Haggard under such humble conditions was quite impressive.

When we arrived home, we figured up the expenses. They roughly came to $444 — or $111 apiece. The biggest expense was the rental of the houseboat ($300). Food and beverage totaled about $70 and the rest was spent on incidentals and gas.

Not a bad price for being captain of your own ship.

The BICENTENNIAL is NOW. 200 Years ago our colonial leaders were taking sides and debating far into the night the pros and cons of our troubled relationship to the mother country — England. The chief outrages imposed by the British: the Writs of Assistance (search warrants); the Stamp Act (ridiculous taxes); the Townsend Acts (import duties); the quartering of "redcoats" in Boston (nicknames "lobsterbacks") . . . all these and more outraged the colonies.

Out of it all came the Declaration of Independence. The Revolutionary War, Victory at Yorktown and in 1777 the Continental Congress resolved: "That the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes — alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars — white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

We offer at cost as a Bicentennial Public Service a complete home flag kit — a 3 x 5 foot double-stitched heavy cotton flag — a 6-foot jointed 2-piece staff with top ornament — a heavy mounting bracket with three screws — all in a sturdy 2-piece storage carton with full color flag history folder. Order yours today by mail or by stopping in our office. Use coupon for mail orders.

Harbor District Approves Budget

A new 1975-76 budget with a 20 to 25 per cent property tax reduction was approved by the San Mateo County Harbor District Commission this week.

The tax per $100 assessed valuation could be 2.6 to 2.8 cents depending on final AV figures from the county assessor's office, according to District General Manager William Kerrigan.

What this could mean is less actual out of pocket cost to the county's taxpayers, Kerrigan indicated.

What this could mean is less actual out of pocket cost to the county's taxpayers, Kerrigan indicated.

The new budget calls for $256,140 in general fund expenditures and reserves and $882,000 in capital outlay, the $1,138,140 total about $30,000 below last year's budget.

One reason has been that $142,000 of last year's capital outlay was carried over to the new budget for work delayed until this year, including new patrol boat dock and courtesy dock installations and fishing boat dock improvements, Kerrigan said.

Most of the other capital improvements fund will be for engineering studies and tests for the planned new 440-berth marina project, a substitute for a much larger project killed last year by environmentalists and the state Coastal Zone Conservation Commission. "We're starting all over again on this," Kerrigan said.

Property Sale Nears Record

Property sales in San Mateo County totaled nearly $100 million during the month of June, the second highest month in the county's history, County Clerk-Recorder Marvin Church reports.

Church reported that the Recorder's Office collected $107,125 in documentary transfer taxes during the month, second only to September, 1972, when $116,331 was taken in.

The June tax was paid on 1,596 documents conveying interest in real property, Church said.

He reported that $48,122 of the total tax was distributed to the 19 cities in the county, and that $59,003 was placed in the county general fund.

'Airport Avoided Noise Laws'

By GEORGE GOLDING

San Francisco International Airport has been deliberately avoiding compliance with California's anti-noise regulations for years, according to a report submitted Thursday night to the San Mateo County Airport Land Use Committee.

The report was prepared for the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency by Harrison C. Dunning of University of California at Davis.

It comments that San Francisco Airport's management has apparently deliberately avoided complying with the noise law. At the same time, Dunning said, the airport management said everything possible was being done to reduce noise.

Acting ALUC Chairman Art Lepore reported that without a quorum of membership, the Airport Land Use Committee could take no action other than to receive the report. Only five members were present.

Dunning's report itself raises the question of who can take action to enforce the noise law.

When the law was adopted in 1968, it directed California's counties to enforce its regulations, and then authorized Airport Land Use Commissions to bring communities into compliance with airport environment.

Although fines of $1000 per day are specified for non-compliance, no system of enforcement for the noise law, was set up.

Airport Land Use Commissions are not enforcement agencies, and the state's Division of Aeronautics is not an enforcement agency.

In fact, said investigator Dunning, the Division of Aeronautics has assisted San Francisco International Airport in avoiding the noise law which originated with the Division of Aeronautics.

According to the Dunning report, San Francisco International Airport at first publicly claimed it was unable to obtain noise monitoring equipment which would enable it to comply with the state law.

Later, as noise measuring equipment went into operation at San Jose, San Diego, and Los Angeles, SF Airport officials said they were waiting for a suitable system to be developed, for bugs to be ironed out of existing equipment.

Even now, commented ALUC member Lepore, the sound monitoring equipment at San Francisco International Airport has not been installed.

An airport office formerly used for airfield police is being remodeled, and bears a sign announcing to the public that the noise monitoring equipment is being installed, but no noise measuring devices are in evidence.

Dunning, writing for the federal Environmental Protection Agency, reported that the airport's delays have been supported by a series of secretly obtained extension permits, issued by the Division of Aeronautics.

Dunning comments that these actions, through a technicality, avoided review in public hearing. The public was never told that extensions were being sought, he said.

Even the Airport Land Use Committee of San Mateo's Regional Planning Commission, Dunning comments, was not advised that when the airport was seeking extensions of the noise law deadline.

The University of California investigator comments that "the Division of Aeronautics has consistently taken a 'passive attitude toward compliance with its airport noise regulations."

As a result, Dunning found, San Francisco International Airport is one of three examples of how the state noise law does not work.

At Ontario in Los Angeles county, and at San Diego, similar delays have occurred Dunning said.

San Bruno residents Sylvia Gregory and Louis Maraviglia called attention to the Dunning report Thursday night, and asked ALUC to do what it can.

Maraviglia also asked ALUC to seek a nighttime curfew against aircraft operations at the airfield, citing the existence of such curfews in other nations.

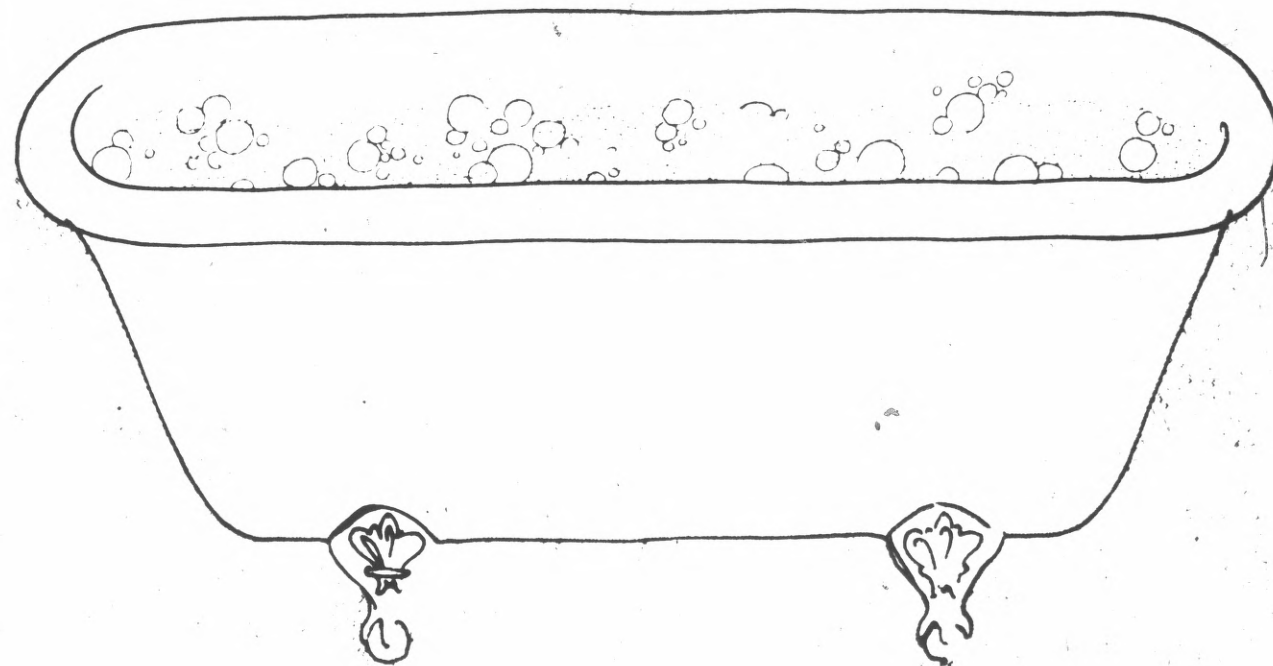

DC Man Held Up

A 67-year-old Daly City man was robbed at gunpoint in the west parking lot of the Serramonte Shopping Center shortly before 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Frank Valentino told police a black man, about 32-years old, 5-ft. 3-in. and weighing 140 pounds, held him up with a revolver and fled in a blue pickup truck with an undisclosed amount of money.

The pickup truck was reported stolen out of San Francisco and later recovered by police on a nearby street.

San Mateo County Floral Fiesta

Educational Extravaganza

By IVA NEWMAN

The San Mateo Floral Fiesta presents one of the most beautiful flower shows in the United States. From the single cut flower amateur exhibit to the huge commercial displays the Fiesta show is truly educational as it has a majority of the plants and flowers that make the gardens in this county so beautiful during the warm months of the year.

The Fiesta not only lets the home gardener get acquainted with the flowers that grow so well in this area, it introduces the home gardener to shrubs and trees of a size that can be used to advantage in the small gardens around today's homes.

Few shows have the space to construct indoor and outdoor gardens that are a big feature of the Fiesta. These gardens ranging in size from 240 to 500 square feet are carefully thought out and planned. As in every landscape design contest, Design has the most points. This year's score card gives this element 40 points. Next highest is Quality of Plant Material, this element on the model gardens score card rates 30 points. The last three elements rate 10 points each, bringing the score to 100 points. Five of these three is Interpretation to Theme. The theme this year is "Nature's Magic World." This element often trips a beginning exhibitor but this year's theme is easy to follow for there is nothing, except human birth, that is more magical than a tiny, hard seed opening to produce a beautiful plant. The second of the three is Condition (neatness and orderliness). This is just a matter of removing damaged leaves and flowers, hiding the cans and pots by heaping the sawdust up to their rims and sweeping walks and paths. Color, the last element, is important. Most blue ribbons go to the exhibit that has large masses of a single color with only small clumps of contrasting color, or perhaps just the one color.

Take Home Ideas

Themes for the gardens this year offer many ideas for a home garden. Magic of the Tropics calls for a naturalistic garden using tropical and other exotic plants. Most of the plants used in this garden couldn't be grown out-of-doors in this area but it would be a good source of exotic house plants.

Number 2 is Green Shadows, a garden featuring water, shade-loving plants and ferns. This one could be fitted into the average garden located on the tree sheltered hills of San Mateo County. It could be a low maintenance garden that could be tied to the indoors by using a plant or a flower with the same coloring as the rug or walls.

Another indoor garden theme is Moods In Color in which the exhibitors are requested to illustrate the latest thinking in the use of garden material which features the dramatic use and bold foliage. There is also a category, House Plant Haven, for condominium and apartment living. In this garden the schedule calls for the use of hanging ferns and plants, plus other container plants. This will be most interesting as more and more of us are trying to find ways to grow more plants in our homes.

Daisy Garden

Daisyland is the title the schedule makers gave a garden that calls for the use of various forms of true daisies and daisy-like flowers. The exhibit must display the many ways daisies can be used in the garden. This should be a most interesting display and one with many take-home features.

Outdoors, the schedule calls for 11 commercially-done gardens, three classifications for garden clubs, a fuchsia garden and a rose garden. All of these categories are said to be filled with not a single vacant space. In the commercial division we are especially looking forward to the gardens depicting the oriental influence and the one titled "The World Of Ground Covers." This latter exhibit is, if it is at all like the one that created so much interest last year, one of the finest educational exhibits ever entered in a fair. The rose and fuchsia gardens let the visitors see some of the newer varieties as well as some of the best of the older introductions. The categories for these outdoor garden are so interesting that it is too bad that every visitor won't have a schedule to help him understand what the exhibitors are shooting for.

This year there are five different Educational Exhibits that will be presented by five plant societies. These booths will be staffed at all times during opening hours of the Fiesta. Fresh cut flowers and plants will be on display and some of them will have "give away" cultural sheets. If you have a problem with any one of these five classifications take it to the correct booth at the Fiesta. The five educational exhibits will cover roses, fuchsias, African violets, begonias and succulents.

In the container plant division the schedule lists 12 different types of flowering plants, 27 foliage plants and 13 house plants plus nine Bonsai classifications. These displays give the public a good idea of the plants that do well in containers for both outside and indoor use. The exhibitors have to be proud of these plants or they never would have brought them in.

The cut flower division is divided into three judgments, one on July 28, the opening day, the second on August 1 and the third on August 5. There is an average of 40 categories, or classes in each judging. Here again is the place to see the flowers that do well enough in this area to be exhibited in the Fiesta so it might be wise to bring along a notebook when you visit the Fiesta.

The arrangement division shows the gardener what to do with the flowers and foliage he works so hard to grow. This is a most important part of every show. See how much prettier flowers can be when they are not just shoved into a vase.

Lawns Require Summer Care

Few sights are so pleasing to the eye as a velvety green expanse of lawn, during a hot summer day. If your lawn fails to please you when you look at it, don't despair. Chances are you can correct the trouble in no time at all.

There are four main reasons for an unattractive lawn: lawn moths, packed soil, fertilizer burns and incorrect watering methods.

Lawn moths, trouble number one, lay their eggs in the lawn. When the larvae emerge from the eggs they immediately begin eating the grass blades at the base. There are many excellent sprays and dry compounds to apply to a lawn to eradicate this lawn pest. Sprays can be applied with a sprinkling can or a hose spray attachment. Be sure to read the label and use as much spray as recommended for a lawn the size of yours. A 1,000 square foot lawn may take up to 30 gallons of spray. Lawns should also be watered deeply the day before the spray is to be applied.

Packed soil is a common cause of lawn trouble, especially in areas where adobe or clay soils prevail. Packed soil can be corrected by spiking with a hand and foot spiker that has hollow tubes that permit a core of soil to be removed. Avoid pointed, closed end spikers as they just push the soil aside thus packing it more. Machines are for rent for doing this job and it can also be done by lawn care firms. Much of the soil packing problems can be avoided by proper conditioning of the soil before the seed was planted or turf laid.

Fertilizer burn is the result of incorrect fertilizing when the grass is wet. Water heavily immediately after fertilizer is applied. If you do burn the grass, soak the areas thoroughly to flood out the extra fertilizer. We have found that it pays to take the fertilizer spreader off the lawn and place it on several thicknesses of newspaper to fill or refill the hopper. This way any fertilizer spilled is on the newspaper, not the grass, and thus easily put in the hopper or bag.

Use a stationary sprinkler when watering the lawn. Hand watering is inadequate, for few gardeners have the patience to hold a hose long enough for the water to penetrate to the grass roots. Even when watering with a sprinkler set a timer and check the amount of time it must run to get the water to the roots.

Dianthus Regaining Popularity

At the turn of the century, dianthus (or "pinks" as they were called then) were the most popular flowers grown in America, exceeding even zinnias, marigolds and petunias. They were used everywhere, for bedding, borders and rock gardens, and have always remained popular, although breeding achievements in other annuals eventually overshadowed them.

In recent years, however, a special breeding program by Goldsmith Seeds Inc., Salinas, plant breeders, has once again turned the spotlight on dianthus with the development and introduction of some new varieties that seem sure to gain even greater popularity than they enjoyed before.

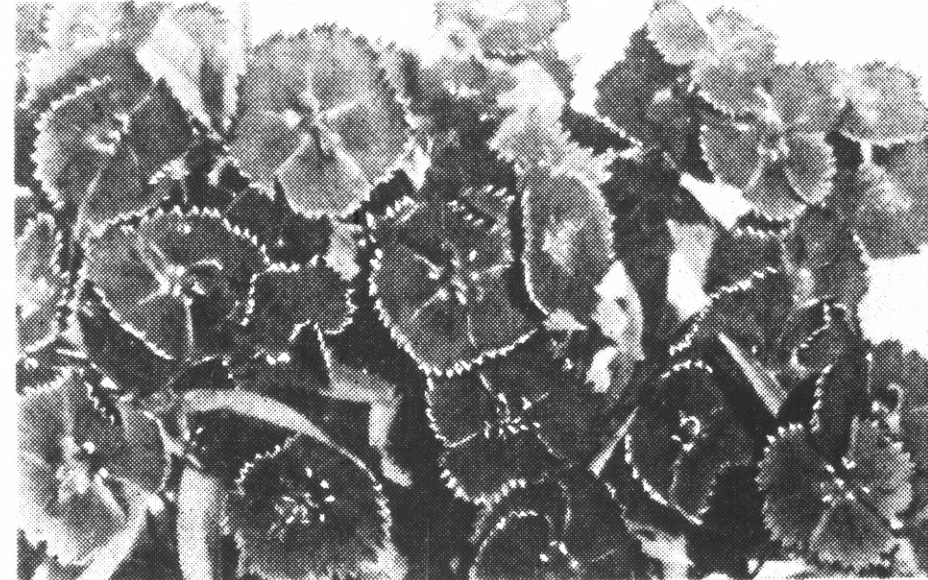

First recognition of this improved breeding was when a new mixture called China Doll won an All-America award. The double-fringed flowers are in shades of crimson, red, salmon and white on compact, bushy plants growing 12 to 15 inches high and early enough to be classified as an annual.

The next year Goldsmith won another All-America award for the first hybrid dianthus, a beautiful scarlet-red, called "Queen of Hearts," that proved to be unusually free-flowering, and growing 12 to 15 inches high.

Goldsmith captured a third All-America award the next year for its first dianthus mixture, called Magic Charms. Magic Charms is early flowering, compact, grows just 6 inches high and almost smothers itself in clusters of serrated flowers in a bold color range that includes crimson, scarlet, coral, pink, white, and two highly unusual speckled bicolors.

Because it enjoys cool

All-America Winner, Queen of Hearts

weather, Magic Charms produces a spectacular flush of color in early summer and can be sheared to produce a repeat display in fall. In many locations, plants will survive the winter and perform as a perennial, flowering the next year. Separate colors of Magic Charms also are available, and two of these have won awards in Europe. We have grown all of these award winners and find they almost take care of themselves and their brilliant colors do attract attention.

It's All in A Day's Work

There are millions of women fantasizing what it would be like to make love to Marlon Brando, marry him or even meet him. And there are some who'd probably like to sock him in the nose or tell him off. But Alice Marchak, the woman who has worked for him for 20 years, managed his household and personal affairs, shopped for his clothes, packed his bags, read his scripts, nursed his dogs and traveled around the world to provide secretarial and hostess services for him, says it's all in a day's work and she has no regrets or battlescars to show for it.

Linda Hunter was also a part of that high-powered and fast-paced life as Alice's assistant with Brando and left after a year to take charge of two equally glittering stars, Blake Edwards and Julie Andrews. Six years later she took time off to collaborate with her friend on the traumas, experiences, glories and agonies of being a supersec (retary) to such internationally renowned celebrities and what it does to their private lives and personal relationships.

"The Supersecs" ($7.95 Charles Publishing Co., Los Angeles distributed by Hawthorn Books) isn't an expose or a public accounting of "dirty laundry." The two authors have too much respect for themselves and their employers for that. But the behind-the-scenes first hand elbow rubbing with the Hollywood set is certainly an intimate and affectionate portrait of those involved, and will surely titillate those who savor gossip. It will also serve as an incentive for secretaries seeking glamorous and demanding jobs.

The book doesn't deal with their bosses as superstars but as people in an exciting business. The salaries are good and the side benefits are terrific.

"Most boss-secretary relationships are intimate. But with one as intimate as ours we have to talk things out. Sure we have disagreements but Julie, Blake and myself all make mistakes and we all own up to take the responsibility for them," blonde Ms. Hunter commented over a luncheon interview recently.

"Marlon demands absolute truth," Ms. Marchak said. "He can't bear a lie. Our 19 years together are based on trust. He's one of the most distinguished actors on the scene today. My life is like a soap opera. I have to go to work to see what will happen next."

"His interests go far beyond the film industry. It's important to maintain an independent life. You can't allow yourself to be taken advantage of, although Marlon is considerate," the very mature and sophisticated Ms. Marchak said.

She made it very clear that she "anticipates his needs and the biggest difference between a Supersec and a regular secretary is anticipating those needs and taking the initiative."

And she pointed out that Marlon has a sense of humor that few people are privileged to. Ms. Marchak began the book without telling him about it. Both women embarked on the writing program without their bosses knowing and because they knew they wouldn't be threatened. That's what a supersec is: discreet, and dismayed; confidential, never crass; private, never tacky. You'd love to know what they know but it's unlikely you'll ever find out because they're what they report to be: confidential secretaries and privy to the intimate.

Nature, Restraints, Chemicals Will Control Garden Pests

Garden pests haven't changed much. DDT has come and gone, people have started organic gardens and the garden pest, oblivious to it all, still does damage. But out of the controversy surrounding DDT and the growing interest in organic gardening, experts have developed some new ideas about how to deal with the perennial garden pest, according to Sunset Magazine.

Because of the natural system of checks and balances in a garden it makes sense to weigh which control — physical, chemical, biological — will take care of a specific plant damager with least risk of destroying harmless or helpful creatures.

Aphids, for example, can be simply and effectively washed off plants by spraying with a hose. Soapy water may be used. It will kill those which tend to hang on. Ants drive away many of the insects which prey on aphids, thus commercial strips of any barrier around shrubs and trees can help prevent aphid epidemics. Lacewing larvae feast on aphids and make an effective control. On the other hand, ladybugs may prove ineffective because it is entirely up to them as to whether they stick around or not. According to Sunset, they usually don't.

"It may strain your belief," says Sunset, "but nature keeps white flies in better check than anything man has devised. A number of wasps lay eggs in whitefly nymphs and pupae; the wasp larvae hatch there and kill the hosts." But if whiteflies become too numerous and plants become debilitated and sticky, spray with malathion, diazinon or pyrethrins.

The best method of eradicating snails and slugs has remained the same for 40 years — manufactured snail bait containing metaldehyde. European brown snails (they were imported deliberately) which plague the gardener are rarely a problem in their homeland because European goats eat them at night or after a rain to collect them for dinner.

Mealybugs have many parasites and predators. They are much worse on house plants than garden plants because the predators can't get indoors. Lacewing larvae and a predator beetle called Cryptolaemus, available from commercial insectaries, will control mealybugs effectively.

Powdery mildew shows as patches of whitish or grayish powder on leaves, stems and flower buds. If a plant mildews every summer it doesn't belong there, you should try a new location. Mildew can be controlled with karathane, benomyl, parnon or phaltan. Sulphur and copper oleate are protectants.

Cutworms are best eradicated by hand. Chemical controls aren't certain, though diazinon or sevin can be used. Sevin is hard on honeybees if nectar bearing flowers are nearby.

Cabbage worms and cabbage loopers have similar habits and similar controls.

KREPELKA-COYLE

At home in Daly City are Mr. and Mrs. David Boyle who were married recently at St. James' Episcopal Church in San Francisco.

The bride is the former Linda Matheny, daughter of Evelyn Matheny of Daly City and Bud Matheny of Half Moon Bay. Gerry Matheny of Half Moon Bay is her stepmother. The bridegroom is the son of Peter and Florence Boyle of Daly City.

The Rev. Max Christensen caught by a pearl petal headpiece.

JoAnn Schlotthauer, the honor attendant, wore a pink gown with a white lace bodice. Carole Matheny, the flower girl, was also frocked in pink and white.

Dennis Matheny was best man and Tim Boyle, brother of the bridegroom, ushered.

Linda attended Jefferson High School in Daly City; her husband studied at Victorville High School in Southern California.

The couple honeymooned in British Columbia.

Cavallero-Richards

Stes. Peter and Paul Church in San Francisco was the setting for the recent wedding of MaryAnn Cavallero and Robert Richards. The 3 p.m. ceremony was followed by a reception at the South San Francisco Elk's Club.

The bride is the daughter of Eleanor Cavallero of San Bruno and of William Cavallero of San Francisco, who gave her in marriage. Her bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Richards of South San Francisco.

For her wedding, MaryAnn chose a gown of white organza with an Empire waistline, high neckline, sheer sleeves and a cathedral train. The dress was detailed with Venise lace and the same lace was combined with seed pearls for her crown and veil.

Linda Gross of Millbrae, her sister's matron of honor, wore a gown of flocked lavender organza trimmed with white lace.

The same gowns in pink were worn by the bridesmaids who were Diane Serrato of San Mateo, another sister of the bride; Pam Huskey of South Carolina, sister of the bridegroom; Donna Reed of Redwood City, a cousin of the bride; and Michelle Ward and Nancy Touchatt, also of San Bruno.

DMV Open

All offices of the State Department of Motor Vehicles will be open longer on Thursdays, beginning July 17. The offices will be open from 8 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. on those days.

GOP Registration Drive Is Saturday

The Republican Party is sponsoring a registration drive July 19 in Millbrae and San Bruno, announced Russ Collier, San Mateo County Republican Central Committee chairman.

Volunteers are asked to report to the El Rancho Inn in Millbrae at 9 a.m.

"It is a well known fact," said Collier, "that many elections are won or lost by as few as one or two votes per precinct. Therefore, registration drives are an important task of the party."

Coffee and donuts and a brief training session will be given to volunteers at 9 a.m. They will then go out into the community looking for Republicans who need to be registered.

Theater Company Sets August Performances

The Southgate Theater Company will perform at the Sharp Park Library in Pacifica Aug. 2 and 3 Tennessee Williams' "The Glass Menagerie."

These performances will end the 1975 summer season of the new company.

Earlier this summer the company produced a Renaissance adaptation of Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Very possibly the best known of Tennessee Williams' plays, "The Glass Menagerie" deals with a small American family during the Great Depression. The play examines the affect of love and poverty on Amanda Wingfield; her restless son, Tom; and her daughter, Laura, withdrawn into her own world of sentimental records and tiny, fragile glass ornaments.

The Southgate Theater Company is planning their production of this American classic as a multi-media show, using slides and rear-projection screens incorporated into the Wingfield apartment setting. The director of the show, Gordon Farrell, of Pacifica, said that the slides will be used impressionistically, to underscore certain moods and ideas, rather than as literal, pictorial renditions of the text.

Appearing in the show will be Pacifica resident Lynda West as Amanda Wingfield, a woman living on dreams of her earlier years as the popular belle of a grand, Southern plantation. West has been seen in past productions of the Southgate Theater Company as Cecily Cardew in "The Importance of Being Earnest," Eleanor of Aquitaine in "The Lion in Winter," and Titania in "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Tom Wingfield, the restless, melancholy young writer, will be played by Jeff Wilbur of Daly City, seen also as Algernon Moncrieff in "Earnest," Geoffrey Plantagenet in "Lion," and Puck in "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

The fragile, withdrawn Laura will be played by Donna Wells of Pacifica.

seen before as Alais in "Lion," Gwendolyn Fairfax in "Earnest," and Helena in "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

San Carlos resident Bob Fox will play the Gentleman Caller, "the long delayed but always expected something we live for." This is Fox's first season with the company and was seen as Demetrius in "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

There will be three performances of this show: Aug. 2 at 8:30 and Aug. 3 at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Admission is $1 for children and $2 for adult.

The Sharp Park Library where performances will be held is located in Pacifica at Hilton and Palmetto.

For further information call 359-3871.

Synagogue's Sabbath Rites

Sabbath services will be held at Congregation B'nai Israel, 1575 Annie St., Daly City, Friday at 8:30 p.m.

Services will be conducted by Rabbi Ira Book and Cantor Jacob Graudenz will chant the liturgy.

Alan Mordokowicz will also participate in shabbat services and the choir, conducted by Richard Altman, will participate. An Oneg Shabbat follows.

On Shabbat morning, July 19, at 10 a.m., Alan Mordokowicz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Mordokowicz, will observe his Bar Mitzvah.

Services for this Shabbat morning will be conducted by Rabbi Ira Book and Cantor Jacob Graudenz. Alan, who has reached maturity in the eyes of the synagogue, can now take his place as an adult member of the congregation. He will read blessings, prayers and chant the Haftorah, an accompanying work to the Torah Reading. Marking this special day in his life, he will be presented with a certificate of Bar Mitzvah by Rabbi Book, a prayer book by the congregation president, George Bilick, a ritual Kiddush Cup by a representative of the Sisterhood and a prayer book will also be donated to the congregation in his honor by a representative of the men's club.

Parsha (Biblical Chapter) "Shabbat Nachamu Vaetchanan" ("I want you to be kind...") has been selected to be read at this Shabbat service. A Kiddush hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Mordokowicz will follow.

56 Signers — all Americans — all pioneers — all rebels in their day — all determined to free their fledgling country from the tyranny of England's King and Parliament.

" we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor." The closing words of the Declaration of Independence. How many of us would be so daring, so fool-hardy today?

So, in these Bicentennial Years, let's all break out the flag. Fly it high. Fly it proudly. Fly it to show our respect for the memory of those great 56 men who dared to defy one of the strongest powers on earth so that America might be born and grow into the greatest and most generous country in the world.

We offer at cost as a Bicentennial Public Service a complete home flag kit — a 3 x 5-foot double-stitched heavy cotton flag — a 6-foot jointed 2-piece staff with top ornament — a heavy mounting bracket with three screws — all in a sturdy 2-piece storage carton with full color flag history folder. Order yours today by mail or by stopping in our office. Use coupon for mail orders.

Latin lasses with a hankering to reign as the Queen of the Holy Angels Latin Club's Queen Isabel Ball are being invited to register now for the queen competition.

Nemer Gonzalez, chairman of the event, will accept applications for the contest each Sunday in the Holy Angels Church home immediately following the 10 a.m. mass. Deadline for entering the contest will be August 3.

Each year the Queen and the members of her court are crowned at the lovely Queen Isabel Ball. Date for the Ball this year will be September 6.

To be eligible girls must be between 15 and 18 years of age. Contestants have the opportunity to meet many people and enjoy the fun of competition and cooperation with the other contestants and the sponsoring group. The ball, always a lively and well-attended affair, is the major social event of the year for the Latin Club members.

FLOOD PARK has been selected as the site for the Annual Alumni Picnic to be sponsored by the members of the Balboa High School Alumni Association.

Former "Bal" students, their families and friends, are invited to attend the event on Sunday, August 3, to enjoy the company of former classmates, use the complete recreational facilities and picnic equipment, and take part in the relay races and contests.

Fees for the day are parking rates, 50c per car, 10c per person.

For further information about the picnic call Mrs. Joan Anderson Christensen (467-5021) or Mrs. Emily Powell Sumrall, (826-8046).

THE DALY CITY Community for Children's Services (DCCCS), now with funding from Daly City to employ one teacher, one teacher-director and two teachers' aides, is now asking for more volunteers to assist with the organization of supportive committees.

According to Mrs. Rhena Gonzalez, the community organizer, the individuals working with the development of DCCCS are hopeful that men and women who have young children who may one day be involved in the child care center will come forward to help during the developmental stages of the program.

Mrs. Gonzalez indicated that the first step toward helping with the program would be to attend the monthly meetings which are held at 7:30 p.m. in the War Memorial Building on the first Monday of each month. Parents and community members who would like to take an active part in the developmental aspects of the program will be invited to form a steering committee to promote community involvement.

The total program is a new concept for the area and Mrs. Gonzalez noted that a wide community based corps of volunteers will hold the key to successful organization and promotion of the concept. For additional information call 992-3591.

A LENGTHY LIST of new members names graces the roll book of Mary Help Hospital Guild, according to Mrs. Thelma Cranna, the editor of the guild's newsletter.

Among those named as recently installed members are Mrs. Harold Benenson, Mrs. Marye Duffy, Mrs. Paul Larsen, Mrs. Armand Mariano, Mrs. John Marino, Marilyn Nottingham, Mrs. Bob Rauch, Mrs. Winnie Shoub, Mrs. Nabil Bissada, Mrs. William Calegari, Mrs. Frank Lawler, Mrs. Floyd Bachman, Mrs. Peter Grammer, Teresa Castelan, Kathleen Rino, Mrs. Anthony Rodriguez, Mrs. Owen Walsh and Mrs. Ambrose Bottarini.

Other new members are Mrs. Craig Furgason, Mrs. Gordon Howitt, Mrs. Helen Obergfell and Mrs. Florence Olsen.

Members of the guild work as volunteers within the hospital in addition to meeting once each month for a luncheon and business session. Annually the guild sponsors a Christmas boutique and a Spring Fuchsia Ball.

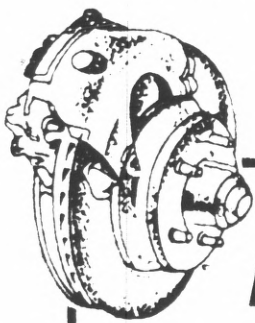

Information about the volunteer program at the hospital is available from Mrs. Mary McCoy, the director of Volunteer services (992-4000).

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD ★ JOHNSON

Adrian Stickney Keeps In Restaurant Touch

Adrian Stickney, who has made a big success of his chain of Peninsula restaurants, including the Shirt Tail in Palo Alto, opened his first location in 1950. Prior to that, he was in the meat business in Alameda. Stickney's years of experience in the meat business is still paying off — you can often find him donned in apron cutting meat in the kitchen of his Redwood City Hickory House. Stickney still likes to keep in touch with the basics of running a successful restaurant — $300 in school clothes is the prize to some lucky person in the latest drawing offered by Tanforan Park's Garden Restaurants, in San Bruno. No purchase is necessary, and the winning entry need not be present to win. All you do is fill out the entry found in today's "Bright Lights" and deposit it in one of the coupon boxes at the Garden Restaurant complex. The handsome, silver-haired gent who "patrols" Nick's, the Moonraker and Captain Charles restaurants in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, is none other than owner Nick Gust. Incidentally, if you're a golfer, Nick is a good listener for tee tips. He and his pal Enrico Romano (he owns Romano's Italian restaurant located just east of Nick's spread) are a steady twosome on the golf links. Murray Lehr takes the sizzle out of summer with frosty-cold fresh fruit daiquiris at Lehr's Greenhouse garden restaurant in San Francisco. There's a choice of five delectable flavors — green apple, fresh strawberry, banana, peach and coconut — and sipping a drink surrounded by all those gorgeous flowers in full bloom has to be one of life's most pleasurable moments. Nevada Tours' telephone has been ringing on the double these past weeks, with vacationers getting information results and reservations for the bonus packages to the Nevada funland. If you're planning a Lake Tahoe trek, suggest you check Nevada Tours' refund offer.

Conventioners Make Phil Lehr's "Home"

Phil Lehr and his crew at Phil Lehr's Steakery in downtown San Francisco are braced for another extra-busy week. Two big conventions are in town (San Francisco Summer Market Week, opened Sunday, and Illuminating Engineering Society, opened Monday) and both have booked many cocktail and dinner parties in the elegant Wellington Room. Scotty Campbell's, an award-winning restaurant since 1950, has maintained a reputation for serving top quality food at moderate prices, which keeps the reservation book busy seven nights a week. On your next visit, suggest you try the Gourmet Platter for Two, one of the many choice menu items. Vince Licata and staff are back in restaurant action and are experiencing the usual "table stampede." Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant offers its own special brand of gourmet food, service and hospital atmosphere, which accounts for its popularity all through the years. Service seven days a week for lunch and dinner. The Villa Hotel Coffee House, which is open 24 hours featuring a "round-the-clock menu," is the meeting place for entertainers after the 2 a.m. curfew sounds. Booking agent Al King (Concerto Music Agency) always seems to be on hand — and, of course, just happens to have contracts with him. The Fork 'n' Cork in San Mateo is now serving "Early Bird" dinners, complete for $3.95, from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m., Tuesdays through Fridays. Dick Allen is the new dinner chef here.

Father Wins Custody of Son

By DUANE SANDUL

"He says he likes me," beamed Eva Lucero of Pacifica, as she walked out of a Redwood City courtroom Tuesday with her four-year old grandson, ending a three-year custody battle by her own son to win custody of the toddler.

"I'm so happy," smiled Daniel Lucero, the ex-GI and father of the child.

Conversely, a Belmont couple walked out of the same courtroom saddened, for they had exhausted their legal fight to remain as adoptive parents to the boy they called Kim.

But today, he's known as Tony, the child born to Lucero by a girlfriend.

The final drama in the often emotional episode climaxed in the chambers of Superior Court Judge Melvin E. Cohn Tuesday when the adoptive parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Logsdon, reluctantly relinquished custody of the child.

The boy was assigned to the Logsdons family when he was 15 months old and Lucero was in the Army in Vietnam. The courts later held that the Logsdons could not adopt the child without the father's consent.

The State Supreme Court upheld that ruling last week, prompting Tuesday's events.

Little Lucero showed little emotion, contrasted to the joy of his father and grandmother and the sorrow of the family which has cared for him.

He stuffed a toy under his arm and walked out of the courtroom with Eva Lucero.

Before the boy changed families, a tense court hearing was conducted by Cohn. He reiterated that he had warned Mrs. Mabelle Logsdon three years ago that it could all turn out this way.

"He looks fine, he looks fine," Lucero declared outside the courtroom. If Tony had been given to us when he was supposed to, it would have been easier. We'll just have to adjust."

In making his ruling, Judge Cohn said he understood that the Logsdons "are very fine people. But that has nothing to do with the decision. Mr. Lucero is the father of this child, and he has a right to custody.

"I am aware that he has had some difficulties with the law, but the grandmother has no such disability. There is no reason why the child should not be with his blood family," the judge said. "The Logsdons' only claim is that the child has been with them for three years. I can't allow them to pull themselves up by their own bootstraps this way."

After the court hearing in Redwood City, Daniel Lucero was on his way to Stockton for what he declared was his last encounter with the law.

Open-Space Hearing By County

Statements were explicit and lengthy Wednesday before the San Mateo County Planning Commission as property owners protested the rezoning of several pockets of open space land to conform with the county general plan.

The commission is in the process of rezoning properties to Resource Management (RM) zoning to comply with a state law requiring that all zoning be consistent with the general plan.

Atherton Phleger, owner of more than 1,300 acres adjacent to Huddart Park near Woodside, summed up the attitude of those protesting with the comment, "I want it left alone."

Phleger was protesting the change in zoning from Residential Estate (RE-11) of his land.

"If you want it as open space, make a showing (of necessity)," he stated.

Others, many of them representing golf courses, claimed that the change to RM zoning would lower property values.

Representatives of five golf courses claimed they failed to receive notices of Wednesday's hearing. This prompted Commissioner Kenneth Strom, who is postmaster of Pacifica, to volunteer his services in assisting in the mailing of hearing notices.

Richard Shrieve, chief of the administrative division of the County Planning Department, said 7,000 notices of Wednesday's hearing were placed in the mail.

County Planning Director Donald A. Woolfe said he was concerned by the complaint that some property owners did not receive notices.

"I wonder if we have a problem in General Services, if the post office is responsible or if it is the recipients," he stated. "It is incomprehensible that all five did not receive notices."

Woolfe and Assistant County Planning Director William Powers informed the property owners that until zoning conforms with the general plan the planning department cannot approve permits for any development on the subject land.

The commission, which held an initial hearing on the matter May 28, took no action following Wednesday's hearing. The commission continued the hearing to its Sept. 10 meeting in order to allow time for response by the planning staff to protests and subsequent responses by property owners.

Among those registering protests to the rezoning was John Badgley, a staff planner for Crocker Land Co. He said the company is opposed to the rezoning of some 1,300 acres on San Bruno Mountain which is designated as the site of the San Bruno Mountain Regional Park while the company is in the process of negotiating with the county for purchase of the property.

Mrs. Ellie Larsen, speaking on behalf of the Sierra Club, termed the RM zoning an "instrument of compromise" which would preserve open space while allowing controlled development.

Slight Assessment Differences

The amount of money to be raised by property taxes in San Mateo County for the 1975-76 fiscal year should increase by less than one per cent, County Mgr. M. D. Tarshes informed the Board of Supervisors last week.

Tarshes said he made his prediction of a less than one per cent increase in tax dollars this year on the basis of county budget cuts made by the board, the more than 16 per cent increase in assessed valuation and an anticipated ending-fund balance from the 1974-75 budget.

The manager's comment followed the board's acceptance of a report and recommendations by property tax consultant Ronald B. Welch concerning the county's property assessment practices.

In comparing figures from sales prices of single-family residences and the trend of fair market values of commercial-industrial properties, Welch said, "It is not all clear that there was a significant difference between the average assessment levels of the two classes of property."

Welch was retained by the board to review the county's assessment practices following complaints by homeowners' associations that homeowners were being reassessed on a regular basis and are paying a disproportionate share of property taxes as a result.

Welch said if commercial-industrial properties were to be assessed 5 per cent higher their total assessed value and the total county tax base would be increased by roughly $22.5 million.

All other things remaining equal, single-family residential properties would then contribute 56 per cent of the tax base instead of 56.5 per cent.

The average home would therefore be relieved of about $7.70 of taxes a year by the hypothetical 5 per cent increase, Welch reported.

However, the consultant said, County Assessor Jack Estes should "speed up the reappraisal cycle for commercial-industrial properties" and perhaps temporarily slow down the reappraisal cycle for single-family residential properties.

"It is my hope, however, that enough economies can be made in the appraisal of multi-family residential and commercial-industrial properties to permit the assessor to reach his goal of biennial reappraisal after a brief interlude of triennial reappraisals," Welch said.

If this is the case, he said, a brief period of triennial reappraisal will not cause serious deterioration in the county's overall assessment ratio.

However, Welch added, the long-run outlook is for continued inflation at rates which make triennial reappraisals disruptive, with the 25 to 50 per cent jumps in assessed values every third year which will then be prevalent.

Welch warned against too substantial a shift of assessor personnel from single-family residential appraisals to commercial-industrial appraisals, stating this could occasion deterioration in the data base on which single-family residential property appraisals are predicted.

The tax consultant recommended the employment of a crew of "property describers" whose duty would be to canvass the county's 156,000 single-family residences and verify or correct the data base on which computer-produced value estimates are predicated.

He said a crew of 10 property describers would be able to cover the whole county in a four-year period.

This activity would have a minimal effect on the total taxes on single-family residential properties, but it would spread them more equitably and reduce the annual appraisal effort required to assess them, Welch reported.

The report recommends the assessor begin to build a comprehensive data base for commercial-industrial properties. The base, Welch said, should contain the information needed to computerize the calculation of replacement costs, less depreciation. This, he said, could be used as a market value test and also, in periods of prosperity, as a trending device between conventional appraisals.

The board voted acceptance of Welch's report and directed the county manager and assessor to return with a plan for implementation of the report's recommendations within the next two to three weeks.

Board Chairman James V. Fitzgerald said the board was "happy that we were able to resolve this within the system, and that Estes is doing his job."

"There are a few wrinkles to iron out," he stated.

Anniversary Event For B'nai Israel

Congregation B'nai Israel will honor Rabbi and Mrs. Ira Book on the occasion of their first anniversary with the congregation.

Sabbath services on July 25 will be geared to pay tribute to the spiritual leader and his wife in addition to the traditional portions of the Sabbath observance.

The service will be led by Cantor Jacob Graudenz who will chant the liturgy and he will be assisted by A. Arthur Hirschhorn, chairman of the religious practices committee, and George Bilick, president of the congregation.

Expected to appear are representatives of the Board of Rabbis of Northern California and Daly City.

An Oneg Shabbat will follow the service.

Sabbath services will continue Saturday morning beginning at 10. The Parsha (portion) of the week is "Ekev."

The service will be conducted by Rabbi Book and Cantor Graudenz and a Kiddush will follow.

The festivities celebrating the anniversary of the Books' involvement in the congregation will continue on Saturday with a dance that will feature live music and a continuous buffet that will specialize in many traditional foods and favorite recipes of the ladies of the special committee in charge of the event.

Mesdames Jonah Miller and Bernard Shain are in charge of the event and are assisted by a wide cross-section of congregation members.

Expected to attend are members of the rabbinic, Jewish and non-Jewish local community representatives and members of the congregation.

The public is invited to attend and may make reservations at $7.50 per person by calling the synagogue office, 756-5430, 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

Proceeds of the evening will benefit the Jewish Welfare Federation.

Farber Angered Over Ideal's Quarry Presentation

By BOB PETERSON

Ideal Basic Industries came to Pacifica Thursday noon to unveil an idea that its quarry west of Coast Highway, between Vallemar and Rockaway Beach, could be transformed into a multi-million dollar commercial-recreational area.

Possible developments talked about for the 119-acre site included a hotel-motel, restaurants, a neighborhood community center with service shops, a convention center, a civic center complex, a picnic-recreation area and an offshore marina.

This first public unveiling of strictly conceptual plans before the city's Chamber of Commerce at the Muffin Mine restaurant intended to generate public interest ired Mayor Stan Farber.

He criticized the firm's representatives for not taking their proposal through the city's planning process before airing it at a public meeting.

"You're playing both ends against the middle. I don't appreciate that," said Farber. He noted that the firm had met briefly with some staff members and city officials about two months ago and at that time was told to make an application for development.

"When are you going to come to the city?" asked Farber caustically.

Gib Rodli, local representative of the Denver, Colo., based firm, explained the company was concerned about what the Coastal Commission's position might be on quarry development.

"We're scared to death of what they're going to do," said Rodli, adding that the firm's intent was to get reaction before becoming deeply involved in any specific project.

He also explained that there was a staff level meeting planned for mid-July between the city and the Coastal Commission concerning what was termed a sub-regional plan.

Under the present tentative Coastal Plan, noted Rodli, the Sharp Park area of Pacifica is earmarked as grazing land. This sub-regional plan would hone in on specifics of the Pacifica area.

Rodli said representatives of his firm would like to be present at that staff meeting. He said once it is determined there would be no problems with the Coastal Commission, and the city is receptive, his firm will proceed through proper channels.

Henry (Bud) Bostwick, executive vice president of the San Mateo County Development Association, said:

"This is the first time a developer has said we've come to the end of the rope in investing dollars, only to have a project turned down after going through the planning process.

"It's time local communities understand that if these dollars are spent and nothing comes of it, nothing comes of local economy, either."

Bostwick was critical of officials who are "influenced by those people (who halt projects) who never owned a stick of property or had to meet a payroll."

Dennis Rosengarten, property development coordinator from Ideal's Denver office, pointed out that the firm in the last five years has spent $50,000, including previous plans to do something to improve the quarry site.

"We don't want to spend that kind of money again for nothing," said Rosengarten. He said he would be interested in presenting the firm's ideas to other community groups.

Farber asked Ideal's position on proposed Interstate 380, which the city will have on the November ballot and which, as now proposed, shows a clover-leaf interchange on the quarry site.

Another thing that bothered Farber was Ideal's proposed off-shore marina, since the city presently has a small boat harbor project in the mill.

He also was critical of what he took to be Ideal's apparent proposal to have the city install utilities, in exchange for civic center land dedication.

Rosengarten said his firm's request was not for installation of all utilities on the site, only that the city provide hookups to the site.

On the Marina proposal, Rosengarten said marinas located on land don't make money. "It's what goes on around the marina," such as the commercial-recreational offerings that make the money, he said.

Rosengarten was noncommittal on proposed route 380, saying his proposed development could take it or leave it, at which point he was charged with

"trying to be non-political."

Rodli admitted the firm was "avoiding coming out with a strong commitment. Ideal has never opposed the extension," he said. Obviously it would generate more business. "The interchange (on the property) we are opposed to," he added.

According to Rodli, the lease the firm has with quarry operators Rhodes and Jamieson expires in 1978. "A firm decision has to be made on what to do with that key piece of property," he said. The quarry has been in existence since 1900.

SELECTED

Airman Edgar T. Morales, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwardo S. Morales of 4237 Callan Blvd., Daly City, has been selected for technical training in the U.S. Air Force aircraft equipment maintenance field at Chanute AFB, Ill. The airman recently completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex., where he studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations. He is a 1974 graduate of Mission High School, San Francisco.

available to protect the public interest," she said.

Mrs. Larsen also said there are separate environmental impact reports being prepared for San Bruno Mountain — for the proposed Visitacion Associates community development, for the park, for the quarry operation near the Crocker Industrial Park. She asserted proper planning cannot be achieved by "fragmented" efforts, and asked that an integrated plan for zoning of the mountain property be developed.

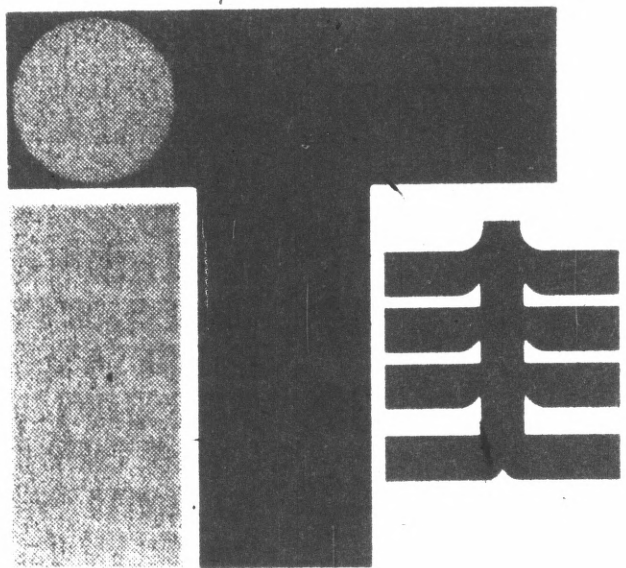

Assistant Dist. Atty. Henry A. Dietz informed the commission and property owners that if the RM zoning is not instituted in the open space areas in the county it will be necessary to hold public hearings on proposals to amend the general plan which would allow retention of existing zoning.

There are 16 areas involved in the rezoning proposal, totaling more than 20,000 acres.

Max J. Babin, assistant superintendent of property for the City of San Francisco, protested inclusion of more than 8,700 acres of watershed property in the rezoning. He contended RM zoning would not allow construction of water treatment plants in the area.

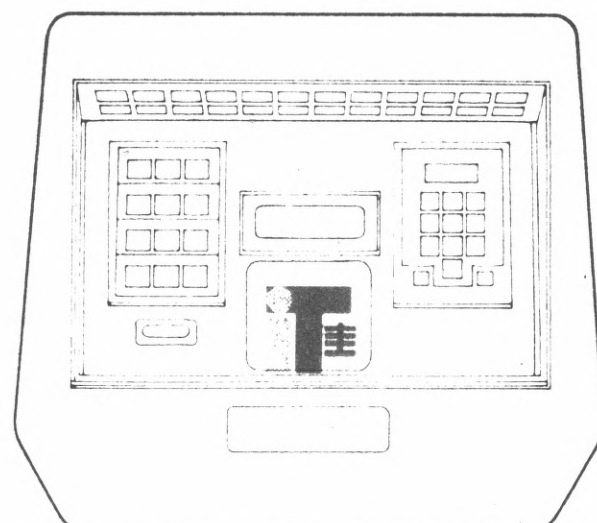

Woolfe replied, saying there is no intention to restrict any watershed uses and noting that San Francisco, as a public entity, could construct any type of facility it desires without conforming to county zoning regulations.

Planner Donald Craig also noted that the balance of the 23,000 acres owned by San Francisco in the watershed area already is in RM zoning.

Trustee Sought for Carolands Chateau

The State Attorney General Younger's Office Thursday mailed formal notice, approved by the San Mateo County Superior Court, to 21 charitable organizations and governmental entities in an attempt to locate a possible successor trustee for properties bequeathed by the late Countess Lillian R. Dandini for charitable use.

The historic Carolands Chateau of Hillsborough, recently designated as a state historical landmark, is included among the properties for which a trustee is sought.

Countess Dandini died in 1973 and left the Chateau, its furnishings and art work, and two Oakland properties to the city of Hillsborough to be used as a "library for books, music and art with emphasis on French and Italian."

The city of Hillsborough has declined to operate the Chateau as a library.

Acting on behalf of the public interest, the attorney general's office is seeking to bring before the court other qualified organizations that might act as substitute trustees for the properties and maintain the Chateau according to the terms of the will.

The notice requires that all charities submit written proposals for use of the Chateau by Aug. 11 to the San Mateo County Superior Court.

Any charitable organization interested in submitting a written proposal for maintenance and charitable use of the Chateau is invited to contact Deputy Attorney General Carole Kornblum, in Attorney General Younger's San Francisco office.

Telephone is 557-2645.

Aid for Handicapped

Low income homeowners who are blind, disabled, or 65 or older are being advised by the state Department of Benefit Payments that they may be entitled to public assistance benefits regardless of the value of their home.

Under the basic Supplemental Security Income program administered by the Social Security Administration, persons with homes worth more than $25,000 cannot receive payments even though they meet all other eligibility requirements.

But a special state excess value home program is run in conjunction with federal Supplemental Security Income and enables eligible persons with homes valued above this amount to receive monthly benefits.

The program is set up in order to help needy individuals who live in areas with high property values. We've had a number of persons apply who fit into this program and we realize there are others who may not know they are eligible," said Jerry Prod, acting director of benefit payments.

"We think there may be people who were denied Supplemental Security Income benefits because of the value of their home and were not informed of the excess value home program."

Prod said these people can apply for benefits under this state program, and may be entitled to receive payments retroactively to the date of their first application with the Social Security Administration.

The opportunity for persons to apply for retroactive benefits will expire on Sept. 30, 1975.

Persons who believe they are eligible should apply through their county welfare department.

To be eligible a person should not have over $1,500 in personal property aside from the value of the home.

'Courtesy Corps' Made Up of Students at DMV

The motorist who visits a Department of Motor Vehicles office starting July 14 for registration or a driver's license may get more than he bargained for — like his tires checked for pressure and tread, the condition of his windshield wipers noted, and maybe even his windshield washed.

It will be the work of the DMV Courtesy Corps, 110 high school and college students hired for the summer to work in DMV offices throughout the state.

The young people between the ages of 14 and 20 are paid $2.10 an hour in federal funds provided under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.

DMV Director Herman Sillas said the Courtesy Corps is another facet of DMV's campaign to present a "newer, brighter face of government" to the 13 million drivers the agency serves in California.

Sillas said that the courtesy service to motorists who visit DMV offices provides "a great opportunity to influence people's attitudes about government's role in our society, giving the people we serve a good feeling about all government, not just DMV."

The experience should also be personally rewarding and educational to the young people, too, Sillas said, gaining for them some new insights into the role of a government agency in the important field of traffic safety.

The Courtesy Corps worker, distinctly identified by a colorful headband, will greet the driver of each car as it enters the parking area, and inform the driver of the free-service offer as described on a Safety Information Card.

In addition to offering to check tires, windshield wipers and clean windows, the summer youth aides may help DMV clients install their license plates.

One day a week the young people will be involved in specific training programs

2 Per Cent Decline in Use of Gas

Figures released by the California State Board of Equalization reveal only a two per cent decline in the use of gasoline for the first three months of this year as compared to the first quarter of 1973, and a slightly less than four per cent decline in April 1975 as compared with April of two years ago.

Last year's figures were not used for comparison because of the abnormal circumstances resulting from the boycott by Middle Eastern oil producing nations.

Actual net highway usage in gallons for the first quarter of 1973 amounted to 2,381,133,432 as compared to 2,335,809,099 during January, February and March of this year.

In April of 1973 838,492,044 were used, while this year the April consumption was 805,420,563.

"This is a miniscule decline when we consider that President Ford is seeking a fifteen per cent reduction," said Neal Garrison, executive vice president of the over a million and a half member California State Automobile Association.

"Despite almost daily warnings that times are changing, Americans continue to use their cars with an apparent lack of concern about the months ahead."

"Motorists do not seem to be convinced of the serious long range implications of the fuel situation, he said, 'the retail price of gasoline has risen to unprecedented heights."

Rumblings from the OPEC nations foretell of further increases in the price of crude oil this fall, and a general atmosphere of apprehension permeates the White House and the Congress whenever the subject turns to the future of America's energy sources," Garrison said.

The automobile club executive adds that if the prevailing attitude of large numbers of American motorists continues, our country's goal of becoming independent of imported crude oil is far, far down the road.

"Prudence this summer need not deprive motorists of the use of their cars," adds Garrison, "but on the other hand, extravagance now, can result in gasoline price penalties later."

Volunteers Of America

The Volunteers of America have extended their Summer Search for Salvage, and are requesting donations of all types of useable clothing, shoes; gas and electrical appliances, radios, televisions, furniture and household furnishings; baby furniture and layettes; dishes, silver, office equipment and furniture; antiques, bric-a-brac and old newspapers.

Lt. Colonel Raymond G. Ecklund, executive officer, says: "There has been no letup in the number of requests we are daily receiving for assistance to needy and low income individuals and families. We are experiencing, as well, the usual large number of calls for help from transient workers. Therefore, we need to continue to augment our constantly dwindling inventories of all types of merchandise in order to be ready to help them when our help is needed."

The 80,000-member California Association of Realtors has decided not to take a formal position on the Coastal Zone Plan until the plan is in its final form.

Announcement of the decision was made by CAR President Richard C. Farrer of Hayward at the 398th session of CAR's board of directors which met recently in Monterey.

"Our association does not intend to assume a formal position regarding the evolving Coastal Zone Plan until it is in its final form," Farrer said.

"With this final form of the plan would be inclusion of provisions for government structure, powers and funding which presently are not there.

"Members of our association have testified at each of the joint state-regional hearings on the draft plan to express some of their concerns about the major document since our association felt it necessary and appropriate to convey its tentative concerns about the Plan to the California Coastal Zone Conservation Commission. We wanted our views to be considered as the final plan is being formulated," he said.

CAR adopted a resolution defining statement of coastal policy and commentary regarding the draft preliminary coastal plan as submitted by Robert Prigmore of Bellflower, chairman of the association's Land Use and Environmental Committee.

Copies of the resolution were sent to members of the state and regional coastal commissions, members of the legislature and local governing bodies within the boundaries of the coastal zone, Farrer said.

Needy Can Expect Larger Checks

California's 630,000 needy aged, blind, and disabled persons can expect larger checks in September as a result of the $65 million in added cost of living benefits passed by the legislature and signed by the governor.

Health and Welfare Agency Secretary Mario Obledo said that while the higher payment levels took effect July 1, it will be 60 days before the Social Security Administration check-paying system can begin delivering the higher amounts.

Continuing recipients will receive separate checks covering retroactive payments between July 1 and the date when the new higher payments begin.

The additional $65 million in state money means a total cost of living increase of 9.9 per cent for fiscal 1975-76 for those in the Supplemental Security Income program.

For an aged individual the added money means a $24 a month increase over the amount received before July 1.

The payment level for persons in this category is being increased from $235 to $259 a month, although from July 1 until the new levels are in effect payments will be made at the $250 level.

Blind recipients who had been receiving $265 before

July 1 will receive payments of $283 until September when the checks under the higher payment level of $292 can be paid.

Acting Director of Benefit Payments Jerry Prod said his staff was working with the Social Security Administration to put the new payment levels into effect as smoothly as possible.

"There are some fine details we are working out right now," he said. "For example, during July and August new applicants in the individual aged category will be eligible for aid based on the $259 level, even though during this period checks will be paid at the temporary $250 level. In some situations this could give social security offices problems in processing new applications."

Prod also said a small number of recipients with relatively high outside incomes could find themselves temporarily ineligible during the transition to the higher payment levels.

He said the state would be identifying these persons to insure their eligibility for Medi-Cal would continue without interruption.

Development

Robert Follette, general manager of Visitation Associates, will talk about development on San Bruno Mountain at 8 p.m. July 16 at the Black Angus Restaurant in San Mateo during a meeting of the Peninsula Association of Contractors and Engineers.

SAN BRUNO 4-H CLUB AT TANFORAN

Members of the San Bruno 4-H Club will exhibit their talents and hobbies at Tanforan Park Mall Friday and Saturday, July 18 and 19. Pictured above (left to right) are Roberta Hernandez, Cindy Connell, Sally Meyers and Medford Meyers. Among the live animals on display will be calves, sheep, poultry, and rabbits. In addition the 4-Hers will show their skills in food preparation, clothing, leather craft, dog training, and home furnishings. During the two day show the 4-H Club will also hold a bake sale to raise funds for future projects.

LIVE COUNTRY MUSIC

Jack Begley and The Stone Country Band will perform at Tanforan Park Shopping Center on Thursday, 6-7 p.m., as part of the Center's Western Days celebration. Stone Country Band's recent Bay Area appearances include a stint on the Tanya Tucker-Freddy Heart Show at the Concord Pavilion and Marine World's KNEW Country days. The group will be in the Central Mall of the San Bruno Shopping Complex, July 17 only. Admission is free!

MISSING A BOA?

Peninsula Humane Society volunteer Robin Schools has been assigned the task of caring for a seven foot Boa Constrictor until the creature is claimed by its owner. Two San Bruno police officers, Terry Johnson and Paul Esposito, Friday evening were dispatched to 574 Hensely Ave. to aid Ron Pearson capture the snake, which somehow had managed to invade his residence. Police said Pearson had returned home to find the unwanted house guest coiled behind a refrigerator. Pearson and the two officers used a broom stick to slide the snake into a pillow case.

Commuter Tax Plan Disinterred in S.F.

San Francisco soon may try to hit commuters with a form of income tax that was ruled illegal by the courts only eight years ago.

The tax would be aimed at those persons who work in San Francisco, but live elsewhere, according to its proponent, Supervisor Terry Francois.

Francois is a San Francisco lawyer.

He said he was aware that earlier efforts to slap commuters with a special income tax had been thrown out by the courts, but thought it was time to try again.

He did not elaborate on how his plan for levying this tax would work, except to say it would have special considerations for those who reside in San Francisco.

"We could allow those who already pay San Francisco property taxes, either directly as property owners, or indirectly as tenants, to deduct those taxes from the (proposed) income tax they would owe," Francois said.

Such a move would eliminate the burden of tax on residents and place the tax directly on commuters, it was explained.

Deputy City Atty. James Stark has been asked for his opinion on the recommendation by next week.

Mental Health Planning Rapped

James V. Fitzgerald, chairman of the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors has taken Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. to task for the "serious lack of state long term programs and fiscal policies with regard to mental health programs."

Fitzgerald notes that all counties in the state are required by the state each year to prepare an updated five-year plan for mental health.

The state also develops a mental health plan, the chairman points out, but "it appears that little attention and no official approval is given to this plan by the Legislature or the govern-nor." "Since state standards and financing largely control the nature and activity level of county mental health programs, it seems particularly important for information to be readily available regarding the state's long term plans and intentions," Fitzgerald says.

The board chairman notes that since 1972 there have been reductions in the state budget which have resulted in sharp cutbacks in services at all levels.

"Our workers simply cannot continue to provide competent services in an environment which threatens their jobs as well as their self respect," Fitzgerald writes.

"The message which comes through loud and clear is that the work they do with the people they serve is not respected and will no longer be supported."

Furthermore, Fitzgerald says, the "confusion over the role of hospitalization is damaging to the delivery of effective mental health services."

He complains that while the State Department of Health informs counties that only a fixed percentage of their budgets can be spent for hospital services, it reduces the number of patients who can be hospitalized in state hospitals and refuses to allow additional funds at the local level for services to these patients.

"We think it is imperative that the state stabilize funding for existing programs, develop sound and respectable policy with regard to the role, purpose and programs of local mental health services and state hospitals in California," the chairman says.

"Having virtually demolished the old-fashioned state hospital system, we now run the risk of demolishing the community mental health programs which were designed to replace them with more appropriate programs." This, Fitzgerald says, "may take California from a position as a leader in mental health to the unenviable record of having some of the most mediocre services in the country."

The chairman says that the Board of Supervisors has discussed the matter at length over the past four years and joins him in officially requesting that the Brown administration "make every effort during this next year to establish clear-cut policy both for roles and fiscal responsibilities in the field of mental health to be shared by the state and counties."

Almaden Pinot Noir Wine, 5th
Here is a full bodied red wine that can be described as smooth with just a touch of "spiciness". This is an excellent wine to serve with red meats or flavorful cheeses. For full enjoyment, it should be allowed to "breathe" with the cork removed for about one hour before serving. Room temperature is recommended.
The price of Almaden Pinot Noir is $2.89 a fifth.

The Cookie Jar's Empty

Good morning, good cooks.

What are the certainties of life? Along with the first two, we can add another — an empty cookie jar during school vacation.

Let's face it, the kids idea of something to do is to eat. How else can they gain the strength to walk from the TV set all the way into the kitchen and pull open that heavy refrigerator door?

A hand full of cookies to munch as they watch the cartoons will give them just enough energy to find something more to eat. Steady cookie munching makes for an empty cookie jar.

Do I have a recipe that will fill that empty cookie jar for you? Need you ask? It fits all the requirements, easy to make, tastes delicious and, most important, yields a large quantity . . . nine dozen. (If you bake them this morning, they may, just may, last until 2:20 this afternoon.)

RANGER COOKIES

- 1 cup white sugar
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1 cup shortening
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups quick-cooking rolled oats, uncooked
- 2 cups rice krispies
- 1 cup shredded coconut

In large mixer bowl, cream the one cup each white and brown sugar with the one cup shortening. Beat the two eggs and add to creamed mixture along with one teaspoon vanilla. Beat well.

Sift together the two cups flour, one teaspoon baking soda, one-half teaspoon each baking powder and salt. Blend into the creamed mixture.

Finally add the two cups each rolled oats and rice krispies and the one cup coconut.

Drop by rounded teaspoonsful onto lightly greased cookie sheet and bake in 325-degree oven for about 12 minutes or until golden brown.

Makes 9 dozen.

Daly City Man Tells Engagement

The family dinner Mr. and Mrs. John D. Ghiorso hosted Sunday at their South San Francisco home was the occasion for them to announce the engagement of their daughter, Marie Antonette, to Scott Michael Tiraschi. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Tiraschi of Daly City.

The couple plans to be married in June, 1976.

Marie Antonette studied at Mercy High School and Skyline College. She is the sister of Michael, David, Kathy, Dan, Ann and Rosemary Ghiorso, and the granddaughter of D. J. McBrady of South San Francisco.

Scott was educated at Jefferson High School and Cogswell Polytechnical College in San Francisco. He is now employed in Mountain View.

Mary Tiraschi is the prospective bridegroom's sister, and Mr. and Mrs. Anselmo Tiraschi of San Francisco are his grandparents.

Wedding Date Set

Celentino Alfara and Gloria Ibarra Alfara of South San Francisco are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Cecilia Ann, to Roland Herrera, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Herrera of San Bruno.

A Dec. 6 wedding date has been set at Star of the Sea Church in San Francisco.

IT'S YOUR MONEY

Q. I have Medicare medical insurance, and I'm confused about what kinds of drugs it will pay for. A few months ago, my doctor gave me an injection that he said Medicare would pay for. When I went back to him for a flu shot he said Medicare wouldn't pay for it. How come Medicare pays for the one and not for the other?

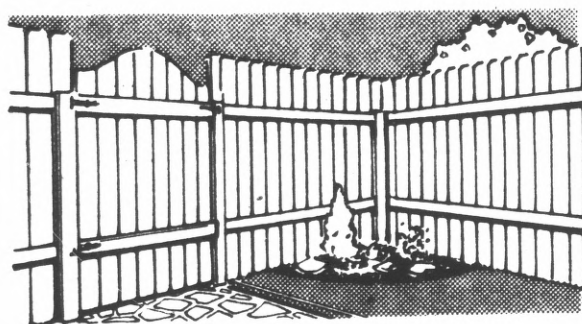

A. Medical insurance will help pay for drugs if they cannot be self-administered and their use is directly related to treatment for an illness or injury. Shots to prevent illness, such as flu shots, are not covered. Also, drugs you buy yourself, with or without a doctor's prescription, are not covered.

Father-Child Relationship

"Father Power" is a new book that concentrates on the father-child relationship in the family. "Fatherhood," writes Dr. Henry Biller and Dennis Meredith, "can be more challenging than any profession, more rewarding than any hobby. Yet thousands of books have been written on men at work, and men at play, but very few on men as fathers."

"The principal danger of fatherhood today (and to the American family for that matter) is that fathers do not have the vital sense of father power that they have had in the past. Because of a host of pressures from society, the father has lost the confidence that he is naturally important to his children — that he has the power to affect children, guide them, help them grow. He isn't confident that fatherhood is a basic part of being masculine and a legitimate focus of his life."

This, the authors write, is most unfortunate because a child needs a strong father as well as a strong mother. Moreover, a mother needs a husband to help her become a more effective parent. A father, meanwhile, needs to know that he is exerting a profound, natural influence on his child to realize his own happiness. Indeed the family becomes an institution for good in society when the father and the mother and the children live in a relationship where each member recognizes his or her power and his or her love.

In modern society, however, a power see-saw between father and mother or between either parent and the child or between both parents and one or more of the children often develops. This results in weakening the bond that should exist between each individual in the family.

One of the reasons for the see-saw relationship is the tendency of fathers to neglect their obligations. More than 10 per cent — about 8 million — of the children in this country live in fatherless homes. Many more live in families where fathers are seldom home. Such neglect has created "profound problems in this country with a significant number of children becoming 'walking wounded' — victims of subtle psychological violence, a result of chronic father neglect." Even if children who never experience father-power seem happy "they are nevertheless affected so that they will not achieve the highest amount of happiness and fulfillment possible."

"Father Power" treats every kind of family relationship and father-child situation. It does so in three sections — The Basis of Father-Power, Father-Power and the Child's Development and Father-Power, Crisis and Challenge. Each section is divided into chapters that are rich in examples of problems and in advice on their solution from medical persons, sociologists and psychologists.

The authors are men who are certainly qualified to advise the fathers of the nation. Dr. Henry Biller is associate professor of psychology at the University of Rhode Island. Dennis Meredith is a science writer for the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. In addition, both are fathers: Dr. Biller of five children, Meredith of four.

"Father Power" is a significant book for the troubled people of America.

Giants Need Starting Power

We have slightly revised our opinion as to what the Giants need most to become a serious contender. At the beginning of the season we thought that it was just a third baseman, an adequate fielder who could hit with power. Even when they lost John D'Aquisto we thought they had enough pitching to carry them through.

Now we know better. They still need that third baseman, but they also need one more starter. And not just a starter, but a stopper, a staff leader. We had thought that Jim Barr could fit that billing, but, even though he is still their best pitcher, he hasn't seemed quite ready to assume the stature of "stopper."

The problem is, how does a team get a pitcher of the Tom Seaver, Catfish Hunter variety? Obviously, they don't come immediately off the farm. They must be traded for, and something very big must be given up. That is the catch. The Giants have traded away all of the material of that grandiose nature that they can afford to trade without weakening the team perilously in other areas.

They had plenty of outfielding strength, so they could pretty much afford giving up Bonds and Maddox. They had a lot of first basemen, so they could afford Kingman and Goodson. Unfortunately, they didn't get any pitchers for that quartet. They got another great outfielder for Bonds (Bobby Murcer), a reserve infielder (Craig Robinson) for Goodson, and another first baseman (Willie Montenez) for Maddox. And for Kingman, of course, they got nothing but cash.

MANY OF THE PROBLEMS with those trades had to do with timing. Kingman was blueprinted to go for White Sox third baseman Bill Melton, an adequate defensive man who had hit 107 homers in his last four full seasons. But, alas, the trade had been set for the second interleague trading deadline, and when the players' association vetoed that event, the Giants had to grab what they could for Kingman. Other teams, knowing the Giants were down and desperate, weren't about to stock them with a good pitcher for merely the potential of Kingman, and besides, Stoneham needed the money.

We don't know what happened to Bonds, except that the Giants wanted to dump him in the worst possible way and got the best they could for him. And while we hate to speculate where the Giants would be without Murcer, one still has the feeling that with a little more patience, the Giants might have been able to get a competent replacement for Bonds and a pitcher. But we don't know what goes on behind the scenes, and perhaps there just wasn't a good enough hurler offered.

Of course, the Giants had no way of knowing that Maddox and Goodson would both get so petulant and go sour during the same season, so their first baseman stock suddenly depleted with the trading of Kingman, the demise of Goodson and the slump of Bobby Thomson they had to go for Montenez with Maddox. And Goodson, being now a sub-.200 hitter rather than a .300 slugger, wasn't worth the paper his last .300 batting average (1973) was written on.

So that, roughly and to the best of our knowledge, is how a team with seemingly plenty of tradeable talent loses the talent without getting in return exactly what it needs.

At the moment, because of their imbalance, the Giants are apparently rudderless. They beat teams they shouldn't and get dumped by inferior clubs. They make spectacular defensive plays one inning, look defensively inept the next. They explode offensively for one game, and the go several games struggling to score.

Such failures have little to do with inherent physical talent. Most such behavior is due to youth, thus inexperience . . . and perhaps a little living in the past by some of those old timers behind the scenes.

THE GIANTS PLAY BETTER against the top teams because they are able to get themselves "up" for those series, able to squeeze out their maximum performances. When they meet the weaker teams, there seems to be a letdown from the natural high. A really good professional team will play well against all comers, never getting too high or too low. That has nothing to do with talent, but with experience and maturity, attributes which the Giants now lack.

Perhaps the facet of baseball where such professionalism most shows up is on defense. Really good defense, it seems to us, can come only with experience. It can't be achieved merely with raw animal speed and power. The ideal defensive team should never have to make a spectacular play, because all players would be positioned properly. The true mark of a good defensive player is now how many "outstanding" plays he can make, but how consistently he handles the standard play. And of course, if he is a truly good defensive player, he will cause most plays to be standard.

GIANTS FORTUNES WILL further turn, after such experience is gathered, when Giant philosophy is revised. They are no longer a power team, but they still at times play like one. And when they do try to play like a team with no power must play, they sometimes play that kind of game like a power team would — badly. They must make up their mind what kind of an animal they are. Just as an outfielder with speed can out-run mistakes, so can a slugging team overpower a lot of physical and mental mistakes and sometimes squander good breaks. When a team has no power, it cannot make mistakes, and must take advantage of every break. When the Giants learn, once and for all time, that they can no longer break a game open in one inning, they will be a fine team.

MISCELLANY . . . One has to wonder what keeps Milwaukee in the AL East pennant scrap. They're 9th in hitting, 7th in homers, 7th in runs scored, 10th in stolen bases, 10th in fielding average, 10 in DP's made, and their staff ERA in well over 4.00 (9th in the league) and has completed the fewest games in the majors (seven), which in the AL, with the designated hitter rule, is horrible. . . . An even further surprise is the San Diego pitching staff, which is the best in the majors, tied with only the Dodgers, with a 2.97 ERA.

Daly City Playgrounds Hold Events

DANIEL WEBSTER SCHOOL PLAYGROUND

A variety of activities and sports events were held June 30-July 4 at the Daly City playgrounds directed by the department of recreation, parks and maintenance.

PALISADES PARK
Last Wednesday a cook-out with barbecued hot dogs and marshmallows was held. There will probably be another cook-out soon, recreation leaders said.

In the first free throw contest of the year, Tommy Adair overpowered competition with 8 out of 10 throws from the line.

The hula hoop contest has taken a big jump. With the previous best being six minutes, Jazmin Zelaya turned in a 12-minute performance, and Christina Amicarelli is right behind her.

Track has become a very popular activity. Almost everyone has been timed once around the park. Cornell Thomas has the current lead with 46 seconds.

The park recently took a trip to Westmoor Pool for swimming and playing in the water.

Strikeout and basketball were the two favorite activities last week.

In an abbreviated week at Daniel Webster School Playground, Cynthia Saisi and Sonja Collier displayed their versatile skill in four square. However, they received stiff competition from Nina Truch and Lisa Agrimonte. Albert Martin captured the carroms crown by defeating a group of high caliber challengers — Eric Crenshaw, Mark Oroquita and Mark Hidalgo.

After long hours of work and practice, the local softball team has improved. Forrest Bess and Ferrara LeBlanc head the list of sluggers, while Jose Martinez, Ivan Solorzano are top notch fielders. Rich Mazucco's spirit and hustle earned him "player of the week" honors.

Finally, the team of Jack DuPriest and Marilyn Le Blanc barely edged Lucy

Rodriguez and Mary Miriam to win the Password team title. Password, an enjoyable but difficult game, received tremendous individual efforts from Nino H a m p -

LINCOLN PARK
Despite the fact that the clubhouse hasn't been opened yet, Lincoln Park is still the place where spend their summer day playing kickball, basketball and carroms. Among the most frequent participants are Debra and Danny Scott, Carlin and Nino Broussard, and Ronnie and Rickey Miller.

Lincoln Park's kickball games are a family affair with Darrel and Marilyn Jones, Hector, Cesar and Frankie Lopez and the Berry girls — Cynthia, Sonia and Yolanda.

OLM
Barbeques have been held at Our Lady of Mercy on Wednesday afternoons. Cooking starts at 12:30 p.m. Bring hot dogs and marshmallows. A magic show was held last week by John Pappas. OLM has a carroms champion, John Nagy. He's won about 50 games.

The Thursday movie at 3 p.m. is "PT 109." Bring a dime and popcorn.

WESTLAKE PARK
Westlake Park held its first meeting of the bicycle club on July 2. Officer Hammerman from the Daly City Police Department spoke on bicycle safety and members of the Police Cadets licensed and registered the club's bicycles.

Some older club members rode around Lake Merced for a 5-mile ride, while others participated in slalom and speed races.

Lisa Huff, Jill Alvarez, Iliana Fisher, Annetta Chrysanthis, Ellis Moran, Becky Wislosky, John Zeinden, Susan Solomon, Bonny Zimmerman, Steve Moran, Judy Hipschmann and Danny Rosales.

The winners of the races were Jeter Cox, first; Danny Rosales, second; and Steve DiMura for the boys and Annetta Chrysanthis, first; Lisa Huff, second; and Colleen Bernie for the girls.

Thursday barbequed hot dogs and marshmallows were cooked by aide Eleanor Erwin.

Some of the participants were Angelo Loure, Lisa Huff, Nora Martin, Chris Blakeley, Dennis Flannery Jr., Becky Wislosky, Annetta Chrysanthis, Susan Solomon, Jill Alvarez, Julie Getchell, Colleen Bernie, Kathy Henry, David Cardinale, Bruce Cardinale and John Soldati.

In the carroms Bob Gradwohl took second while Robert Caliz finished third.

In the 11 and 12-year-old division ping pong champ was Cesar Caliz with Barbara Madrieres in second and Dave Capitolo in third.

Carrom champ was Barbara Madrieres with Mike Scheffler in second and John Atkinson taking third.

In the 10 and under bracket, Jon Madrieres, Nick Ciolino and Patty Scheffler finished one, two and three in ping pong while John Mignosa was first in carroms ahead of second place Jon Madrieres and Jamoya Thompson in third.

Among the other fine competitors in the various divisions were Greg Capitolo, Tom Daly, Mary Pult, Steve Beverly and Sheila Calabro.

The Serramonte "Sluggers" defeated Westmoor Park 3-2 in extra innings in the Daly City

New Soccer Loop Set

With just one week to go until kickoff, the NorCal League, a summer city representation soccer league under the affiliation of the California Soccer Association North has lined up Sequoia High School in Redwood City for its 1975 mini-season.

After a one-season layoff during the Earthquakes opening year, the NCSL presents a six-week round robin competition involving the Oakland Rams, San Francisco Buccaneers, Berkeley Mavericks, San Pablo Merchants and the Redwood City Monarchs starting Sunday with double headers each Sunday afternoon.

Opening competition pits the Mavericks against Oakland, 1:30 p.m., while the host club for the series, Redwood City Monarchs, meets a new team from San Pablo, the Merchants, at 3:30 p.m.

A low family admission charge is designed to encourage family attendance.

Burlingame Bid For Hardcourts

By GARRY NIVER

Despite spiralling costs and rumors that they don't want it anymore, the Peninsula Tennis Club in Burlingame is getting ready to bid for the 1976 National Junior Hardcourt championships.

The most important junior tournament west of the Mississippi closed a successful seven-day stand at the PTC Sunday, and tournament director Len Floyd was pleased with the outcome.

"We have to send in an official request to the United States Lawn Tennis Association," Floyd said. "But I guess it (the tourney) is ours as long as we want it."

The reason more private clubs don't bid for it is that putting on a tennis tournament is an expensive proposition.

"It used to be that we could get by with a couple of thousand, which was covered by the entry fee," explained Floyd. "But the tournament cost the club $5,000 this year."

"And that doesn't include the countless number of volunteer man-hours contributed by club members," he pointed out. Almost the entire PTC is involved in putting on the tournament.

"However, despite the increased expenses," said Floyd, "we expect to break even this year. Which is more than I can say for last year."

Last year the PTC was confronted with an unusual situation in that there were more entries than there were homes to house the players.

"So we ended up having to rent 50 rooms at a nearby motel," Floyd revealed. "And that cost us a pretty penny."

Other prominent expenses include transportation, long distance phone calls and rental of the portable bleachers. The latter costs $1,000 for the week.

"This year we realized a little more revenue by charging each entrant a housing fee of $5," he noted. The juniors stay with various families for free, with the housing fee going to defray some of the expenses of the tournament.

"Admissions usually bring in the same every year, which is $1,400, because we just can't fit any more spectators inside the club," Floyd added.

So, while inflation has caught up with putting on a tennis tournament, it still has failed to deter the enthusiasm of the Peninsula Tennis Club, whose members once a year turn the tree-lined community of Burlingame in the junior tennis capitol of the world.

No Moratorium On Montara Homes

The San Mateo County Planning Commission has declined by a 3 to 2 vote to recommend a building moratorium in Montara. Moss Beach and El Granada on the Coastside.

An area planning committee had requested the moratorium until the County Planning Department could prepare and adopt an "overlay" zoning ordinance which would regulate site and design procedures for building permits in the mid-coast area.

The planning staff recommended the moratorium after the matter was referred to the Planning Commission by the Board of Supervisors for a recommendation.

However, the commission this week declined to recommend the moratorium after building contractors and construction workers protested that it would mean a loss of work and jobs.

Planner George Miller reported that since January, 1975, 30 per cent of all building permits processed for the unincorporated portion of the county are for the mid-coast area. He said that 58 building permits have been issued so far this year in the area.

The Montara-Moss Beach-Granada Planning Committee wrote the Board of Supervisors earlier this year requesting a moratorium until an interim ordinance could be adopted to protect the area "from further degradation."

In a report to the board last month, County Planning Director Donald A. Woolfe noted that since 1970 there has been an acceleration of construction on the numerous vacant lots with houses being built which occupy the land to the fullest extent permitted by the Zoning Ordinance.

This has resulted in rows of relatively large homes in some sections which are entirely out of scale with the existing community and which often block views of the ocean or the mountains, he said.

"A majority of the citizens' concerns may be best classified as insensitivity to the land and community scale," Woolfe reported.

He said that the proposed zoning overlay would attempt to resolve these issues by providing for regulation of individual buildings under a design review process, including tree preservation, landscaping, grading, driveways, setbacks, fences, accessory structures, siting, structure height, lot coverage and use of materials.

Voting to oppose recommending a moratorium were Commission Chairman Fred Cohen and Commissioners Louis D. Schenone and Wayne Thomas, with Commissioners Mem Levin and Kenneth O. Strom expressing support for the moratorium.
